GREAT BRITAIN sends a battleship to Nicaragua to protect nationals. This country offers no Monroe Doctrine since no troops are landed. Ships are sent merely to provide refuge for British subjects in peril.

As the business of this country is with foreigners and their property located, south of us, none we hope to use force there.

An interesting picture in this age is a gigantic Chinese executioner with a heavy sword, a dozen or more such executioners, patroling dissatisfied districts, lopping off heads of those accused of planning the strike.

The simplicity of that method would appeal to some in the United States, but they won't say so.

B. C. FORBES, who knows high finance, says the big Rockefeller fortune really belongs to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to whom his father has given it, and says that fortune does not amount to a billion, quoting Mr. Rockefeller as authority.

Mr. Rockefeller, of course, cannot know what he is worth, and holders of Standard Oil stocks cannot know what their stocks are worth. It all depends on how much oil there is in the ground, and at which price the last few billions of barrels sell, as the supply runs short.

BY the purchase of the Pacific Oil Company, the Standard Oil Company of California acquired, and owns, under ground wealth greater than all that Standard Oil has ever paid out.

MORE important than the size of Mr. Rockefeller's fortune is the use he makes of it. He has gathered it in carefully and given it back liberally. Thus far his gifts to science and education, including the fight against disease, and the effort to eradicate specific diseases, amount to more than $500,000,000.

Even the good Communist who believes that everything should belong to the people and be divided will admit that it is better to have one man of intelligence gather a thousand millions and spend the money intelligently, than to have a million people get it and spend it in small driblets for soda water and ice cream, with nothing to show for it afterwards.

IMPROVEMENTS UNDER WAY IN MARION COUNTY

Construction of Bridges and Culverts Will Be Feature of Highway Program

$210,695 AVAILABLE

Four Projects Started Last Fall To Be Finished with Better Weather

More than $700,000 will be expended on Marion County highways in 1927, including the cost of work started last fall and which is to be completed this spring, records in the courthouse show.

According to records in the office of County Surveyor Cord R. Leavens four projects started last fall involving a total expenditure of $61,867.82 are to be finished as soon as the weather permits. In addition contract for the construction of another road to cost $28,690.82 was awarded in January. This amount will not be deducted from the estimated road fund for 1927.

Records in the office of the Marion County Board of Commissioners reveals that the county will have $210,695.27 to spend on county road work, contracts for which are expected to be let within a short time. This amount has been established by the county auditor.

Estimated Figured

The staff in the office of County Surveyor Leavens today started the work of figuring estimates on proposed road building and repair projects following the completion yesterday of the tour of county highways by the surveyor and members of the commissioners' board.

One of the features of the highway program in the county this year will be the work on bridges and culverts, County Surveyor Leavens said today. At least 12 culvert and bridge improvements have been scheduled to date. It is expected that this number will exceed the 15 mark before the final estimates are made.

Among the important bridge work projects in this list is the repair of the Scioto River bridge on the Espyville-rd. The super structure of this bridge will not be replaced, but under present plans of the surveyor the bridge may be moved south. This be explained, is considered advisable inasmuch as the bend in the river at this point has caused considerable trouble in washing out the abutments.

Need Six Works More

Among the incompleted projects is the improvement of Fairgrounds-st and Marion-av, a waterbound macadam job. Molloy & Seekle started work on these two streets last fall and completed about a fifth of the work when bad weather forced postponement. It is estimated that it will take at least six more weeks to complete the work. The contract cost is $13,875.55.

Ten days of work will be required to complete the Kilbury-rd work east of the city, the surveyor estimates. This job will cost $930. The grading has been completed. Traffic bound macadam construction has been contracted for by W. C. Bailey.

The Drylaner-rd improvement work in Montgomery Township, which is being done by G. W. Robbins, Delaware, will require 60 days to finish, it was announced. This is of traffic bound macadam and will cost $6,201.34.

Other Projects

The Newmans-Green Camp road, which is being constructed of waterbound macadam at a cost of $26,840.53 is approximately 85 per cent complete, the surveyor estimates. It is expected that at least three weeks will be required to finish the work. Kniffin & Thompson Construction Co., LaRue, has the contract for this work.

The contract awarded last January is for the improvement of the East River-Carlington highway in Richland Township. A stretch of 4.1 miles of this road is to be constructed of traffic-bound macadam. Anstine & Carey, Kenton Contracting firm, has the contrate on a bid of $28,690.50. At least five months will be required to finish this work.

Coolidge Is Praised And Criticized For Farm Veto; Say Future Jeopardized

Effect of His Action on Chances To Succeed Himself in 1928 Hotly Debated in Capital Today; Iowans Start Boom for Ex-Governor Lowden of Illinois

Washington, Feb. 26—A committee from the Hamilton Club of Chicago, one of the most powerful Republican clubs in the country, today presented to President Coolidge — 23 hours too late — a memorial urging that he sign the McNary-Haugen bill, which he vetoed yesterday.

Washington, Feb. 26—The effect of President Coolidge's veto of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill upon his chances of succeeding himself in 1928 was a hotly-debated question in the capital today wherever two or more politicians gathered.

"Mr. Coolidge by this veto has signed his political death warrant. He at last has definitely alienated the normally Republican east and west."

"Mr. Coolidge by this veto has shown himself a courageous statesman, above sectionalism, which in the long run will be appreciated and rewarded by the country with a renomination and reelection."

Praise and Criticism

Between these two extremes the controversy fumed and sputtered. Representatives of the agricultural west were raging publicly and privately. So, too, were some of the southern Democrats. On the other hand, representatives of the powerful industrial and financial east were loud in their praise for the president's supposedly decapitation of the farm bloc's pet child.

While the extremists on either side made extravagant claims, there was on all sides a general recognition of the fact that whatever else Mr. Coolidge may have done in rejecting the bill he has, at least, let himself in for a savage fight if he aspires to another term in the White House.

The action of the Iowa legislature in starting a petition in favor of Ex-Gov. Frank O. Lowden's nomination within an hour after news of the veto reached Des Moines was cited as merely one indication of the opposition that Mr. Coolidge may expect in 1928.

Dawes and Lowden

The two men that were more responsible than any others for the enactment of the McNary-Haugen bill were Ex-Gov. Lowden and Vice President Charles G. Dawes. Without their championship the bill never would have passed. Lowden has written and spoken in favor of it throughout the grain belt for two years. It was Dawes who took the parliamentary helm in congress and so shrewd generalship maneuvered it through both houses.

Both men are considered candidates by every politically-minded person in Washington.

There is no question of "the split" between Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Dawes. That already exists. There is an official coolness between the president and the vice president of long standing, and which has been particularly marked during the present session.

Neither Lowden nor Dawes is expected to take with equanimity the severe lacing handed out to the sponsors of the bill by the president in his

MORE THAN 200 ON PAYROLL OF NEW FACTORIES

Marion Excavator Co and Alloy Cast Steel Co. Make Rapid Strides

PASS FAIRBANKS TOTAL

Officials Say Employment List at Two Plants Will Continue To Grow

The Marion Excavator Co. and the Alloy Cast Steel Co., new local industrial concerns organized last year, attained an important point in their progress this week when the number of employes on the payroll of each company passed the 100 mark.

This is regarded by local industrial circles as a most remarkable showing, as both of the two new enterprises have been in production only about 90 days.

The two companies were organized to take over the plant of the Fairbanks Steam Shovel Co., after that company suspended as the result of receivership proceedings.

The Fairbanks Co. never had more than 200 persons on its payroll, which indicates that the two new industries will do considerably more than make up for the loss sustained by Marion when the Fairbanks plant closed down. After little more than 90 days of operation the Marion Excavator and Alloy Cast Steel working forces have reached and passed the highest payroll total ever attained by the Fairbanks Co.

Will Continue

Information obtained from officials of the two companies include not only figures showing that the combined working forces now total 208 but that there are prospects of continued increase. Local business men in touch with the situation predict that before many months have passed, there will be 1,000 men employed in the new Marion plants.

The rapid growth of the Excavator and Alloy Cast Steel enterprises is the outstanding feature of general industrial conditions which are reported to indicate a year of gratifying advancement for Marion.

The Gardner Die & Tap Co., which recently moved here from Cleveland and is now operating in the Grosdale car plant formerly occupied by the Studebaker-Wolff Rubber Co., is now in production with a force of about 35 employes which will be increased to 60 or more in the near future. The Wilson Bohannan Co., coming here from Brooklyn, will begin production about June 1 in its new factory on Burlington-st and approximately 60 employes will be on its payroll.

Both the Gardner and Bohannan companies are going ahead with extensive markets already established for their products and with prospects of future expansion.

All four of these important additions to Marion's list of industries resulted primarily from negotiations conducted by the Marion Chamber of Commerce under the direction of its president, George B. Knapp.

It was at Mr. Knapp's suggestion that John D. Owens and his son, Clifford A. Owens, became interested in the purchase of the Fairbanks company plant, starting the negotiations which finally culminated in organization of the Excavator and Alloy Steel companies to operate in the factory buildings. Mr. Knapp and other chamber of commerce officials are also given full credit for bringing the Gardner and Bohannan industries to Marion.

Branch Manager Grabs Revolver, Opens Fire at Hands Up Order

Toledo, Feb. 26—Two bank bandits were routed in a pistol battle here shortly before noon today when they attempted to hold up the branch bank of the Commercial Savings Bank and Trust Co.

One of the bandits, said by police to be Felix Neizgodi, was wounded and captured. Police claim he is the ringleader of the bandits who held up the Federal Savings Association Branch here a few weeks ago.

MARIONITES HIGHEST

Mr. and Mrs. William Miles Receive Combined Grade of 80.55 Per Cent

Superintendent and matron of the Marion County Children's Home will be selected to succeed Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Digel, resigned, as soon as the State Civil Service Commission, Columbus, certifies the eligible list to trustees of the home, G. W. Hinamon, a member of the board announced today.

According to word from Columbus today the following list of eligibles will be certified to the board:

Mr. and Mrs. William Miles, 347 Pearl-st, who received a combined grade of 80.55 per cent at the examination conducted under the direction of the commission here Feb. 5.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Quay, 749 Wilson-av, who received a combined grade of 79.75 per cent.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gilchrist, Worthington, 76.58 per cent.

Three Highest Listed

This list, it was announced, contains the three highest grades awarded the applicants who took the examination.

Mr. and Mrs. Digel, former superintendent and matron, are now holding similar positions with the Franklin County Children's Home near Columbus. They left Marion Feb. 1. Since their departure Mrs. Zella Custer, assistant matron, has been acting in the capacity of superintendent.

It was explained today by trustees of the home that in selecting the new superintendent and matron for the home the board must select the persons scoring the three highest grades. Seven couples took the examination. Of this number several have already received their grades from the State Civil Service Commission.

Board Must Reorganize

Before action can be taken by trustees of the home the board must organize. The present membership includes Mr. Hinamon, E. Churchet, John Bussler, Montgomery Township; Dr. J. W. Smith, Big Island Township, and J. W. Wier, Scott Township. Mr. Wier recently was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Michael Waddell, resigned.

County commissioners will meet within the next two months to appoint Mr. Waddell's successor.

INSULL AGAIN LEAVES QUESTIONS UNANSWERED

Chicago Utility King Renews Defiant Attitude Toward Reed Committee

Washington, Feb. 26—After placing in evidence a $100,000 check which covered his contributions in the last Illinois senatorial primary, Samuel Insull, the multi-millionaire Chicago utility king, today renewed his defiance of the Reed campaign committee by again refusing to name the recipients of two $20,000 gifts.

Insull testified he wrote the check to cover most of the $237,925 he spent in the Illinois campaign. He declared $172,925 of this sum had been spent in the senatorial campaign and $65,000 in the Cook County (Chicago) campaign.

Insull admitted he had borrowed all the money given to the senatorial campaign from the Commonwealth-Edison Co., one of his public utilities. He refused, however, to say whether the $65,000 spent in the county campaign had come from the same source.

Insull defied the committee on all questions concerning the $65,000, saying he did so on the advice of his personal attorney. He also defied the committee when asked to give the names of the persons to whom he gave two $20,000 gifts in the county campaign.

Insull was the only witness and the hearing adjourned when he left the stand. Senator Reed, Democrat of Missouri, chairman, announced that Senator Goff, Republican of West Virginia, would draw a resolution at once citing Insull to the senate for contempt. He added that the resolution would include the names of Daniel F. Schuyler, Insull's attorney, and Thomas W. Cunningham, of Philadelphia.

Reed would not say whether the trio would be called before the bar of the senate and an attempt made to send them direct to jail, or whether they would be cited to the United States attorney here for prosecution in the federal courts.

Gallipolis, Feb. 26—Plans to salvage the river steamer, "Conqueror," were being made here today, following its sinking in deep water near Sciotoville last night. The steamer, owned by the Wheeling Steel Corporation, capsized during a wind storm but the crew of 15 reached safety in yawls.

VOLSTEAD VIEWS 1926 AS PROHIBITION'S BEST YEAR

Minneapolis, Feb. 26—Andrew J. Volstead, father of the enforcement act that bears his name, believes that 1926 was "prohibition's greatest year."

Reviewing the law's achievements for the last 12 months, Volstead said that "slowly, but very, very surely, the country is becoming dry and so far, prohibition undeniably has proved to be a success."

Now legal adviser to the northwest prohibition administrator, Volstead is now in intimate contact with the workings of the law that he wrote, and his faith in the amendment is unchanged.

LISTED AMONG 250 DANGEROUS GRADES IN OHIO

Elimination of Local Intersections Scheduled in State Highway Department Plans

ALL ON STATE ROUTES

One Erie and Two Pennsylvania Junctions Cited; Many Others Near Marion

Three Marion County railroad grade crossings will be eliminated within the next five years by the State Highway Department.

This announcement was made today by State Highway Director George Schlesinger, who made public a tentative list of 238 railroad grade crossings, situated throughout Ohio, which the highway department hopes to eliminate within the next few years.

The dangerous crossings are located only on the state highway system.

The Pennsylvania Railroad crossing one half mile south of this city on the Prospect pk is considered one of the three dangerous crossings in Marion County and will be one of the first to feel the condemnation of the highway department.

Erie Crossing

An Erie crossing about two miles north of LaRue on State Route 47 is the second named in the elimination program of this county and the Big Four and Erie crossings at Slick's Station, six miles south of Marion on the Columbus and Sandusky pk. is the third mentioned.

County Surveyor Cord R. Leavens today said that there has also been some discussion concerning the elimination of the Pennsylvania crossing on the Marion-pk, a half mile north of Marion. This crossing, however, is not named among those on the elimination program devised by the highway department at this time.

Morrow County

Four railroad grade crossings in Morrow County received their death sentence, four in Delaware County were condemned, three in Hardin are to be eliminated, Union County will feel the attack of the highway department, and one in Crawford County is to be done away with.

Crossings proposed to be eliminated in the five surrounding counties include:

In Morrow County: Big Four at Edison on State Route 42; Big Four, ¾ miles south of the junction of State Routes 10 and 61 on State Route 61; T. & O. C., 5½ miles south of Fulton on State Route 61, and T. & O. C., 2¾ miles southeast of Cardington on State Route 55.

Union County

In Union County: T. & O. C. on the southeast edge of Marysville on State Route 21; Erie, two miles south of Peterersville on State Route 21, and Erie north of Peterersburg, on State Route 55.

In Hardin County: T. & O. C. one mile north of Dunkirk and one mile south of Kenton both on State Route 21; T. & O. C. 5½ miles northwest of Kenton on State Route 10.

In Delaware County: Big Four, 3 miles northeast of Delaware and 1½ miles south of Leonardsville, both on State Route 53; Pennsylvania at Sunbury on State Route 47, and Pennsylvania 5½ miles south of Galena on State Route 3.

In Crawford County: Big Four & Erie at southwest corporation line at Galion on State Route 10.

A vast project, requiring at least $20,000,000, the elimination program is the most extensive of its kind ever devised for the safety of motorists.

Its financing depends on the bond

32 MOTORISTS TAGGED DURING WEEK BY POLICE

Only 11 Violators of Traffic Law Appear in Municipal Court

The local municipal court [illegible] created its new system of hearing traffic cases yesterday when Judge Martin received a list of 32 automobiles which had been tagged by police during the week. Although the tags notified owners of all the cars to appear in court yesterday, only 11 complied with the order, the record shows.

In accordance with Judge Martin's plan for traffic law enforcement, police are preparing to round up the remaining 21 autoists and bring them into court. The judge has announced that he expects all owners of cars who find tags attached to their machines to appear for hearing and that if this order is not complied with, arrests will follow.

The present plan is to hear all minor traffic cases on Friday of each week. Should violations become so numerous that they cannot be conveniently handled under this arrangement, the plan will be changed and two days designated for the hearings, the judge states.

Ten Are Dismissed

Most of the cases listed during the last week were a result of alleged violation of parking rules. Of the 11 autoists who appeared before the judge 10 were dismissed without penalty and one was fined $5. The fine was assessed against Marion Miers of 265 Mary-st, who was accused of exceeding the speed limit. All of those dismissed had been called in for parking violations and no penalties were imposed when the judge found that each case was a first offense.

Car owners in court yesterday, in addition to Miers, were William Ring, A. R. Scott, Ray Sutton, John Sontag, J. Mason, Ralph Ballou and J. A. Kehrwecker, all of Marion, W. E. Deterf of Bucyrus and J. L. Myers of Columbus.

Use Special Docket

Names of those who failed to appear are not listed the new municipal court traffic docket, showing only the car numbers. Police will obtain names of the owners from records at the Marion Auto Club.

Under the new traffic court system, all cases of minor violations are recorded on a special traffic docket. More serious offenses, such as reckless driving or driving while intoxicated, will be handled as special cases and arrests made immediately according to Judge Martin's plan.

Ten cars tagged by police since this week's docket page was closed are already listed for next week's hearings. Practically all of them are for parking violations.

WINTER CIRCUS NETS COMMUNITY CLUB $70

First of Series of Entertainments Given at State Street School

About $70 was cleared on the winter circus given last night at the State Street School Building, under the auspices of members of the Community Club. The entertainment is the first of a series of similar entertainments to be given by the club for the purpose of financing the purchase of playground equipment for use during the summer. The entertainment was well attended.

Members of the State Street School Orchestra were heard for the first time in a delightful program preceding the entertainment. Later Paul Wheeler and his Ozark Royalists, under the direction of James Silliman, played for the circus stunts and entertainment. A fish pond, candy booth and bazaar furnished entertainment for the early part of the program.

Jack and Junior Danner staged a boxing match and Adam Bauer entertained with a motion picture show. A group of numbers by Leo Davis, drummer was followed by John F. Maybe There Are No Atoms Smithsonian Expert Says

Correspondent Worried After Lecture and Goes in Search of Advice

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—Ever since I consulted Prof. Charles G. Abbot of the Smithsonian Institute on the color of stars I've regarded the man with a serious aspect of countenance.

CHARLES ABBOT

Is there any such thing?

When a scientist is incorrect about stars, tubes, the periodic table, forces or doubt about them.

For instance, Prof. Arthur Haas of the chair of physics at Vienna University, one of the world's foremost atomic authorities, declares, on "no basis except pure thought," before the Philosophical Society of Washington and the Washington Academy of Sciences:

He returned to the atom as if he'd seen and handled one. He said it's a tiny solar system, same as ours, with the sun in the middle and planets revolving around it. He said there is positive energy locked up in a small number to raise all the hotels in New York to the height of the Woolworth tower, if it could be released and harnessed.

For a long time I swallowed those statements without a grain of salt. I read that solar systems float the way up and down the scale from infinitesimals to the vast astronomicals. I wondered if they were tabulated.

I began to question the story that a pint pail of water contains sufficient energy to lick the "Leviathan" from New York to Liverpool and back again. I noticed it could be released and harnessed. All I wondered was: What would happen if a teaspoonful of energy should accidentally be released without being harnessed?

And finally it occurred to me to wonder also: How, since an atom is said to consist so much in the highest possible compression, did anyone discover the atom thing?

To review these studies I repaired to Dr. Abbot, perhaps America's best known scientist. Chief assistant to the late Dr. C. D. Walcott as head of the Smithsonian, and likely to become head of it himself, following Dr. Walcott's recent death.

I didn't expect to understand much, but I wanted answers to a few specific questions.

FIRST, Dr. Abbot scattered the solar system theory.

An atom isn't a solar system. That's just a way of expressing it. There's a so-called sun, but it's a power compared with its so-called planets, not a whole, like our sun. The so-called planets revolve around it in different planes every which way. No, no! There's nothing to indicate increasing and diminishing scales of solar systems, much less inhabited ones.

Yes, undoubtedly there's boundless atomic energy stored up in matter but there's no reason to suppose it's accidental release would raise the dickens. Probably it would just toss out harmlessly.

"AND how," I asked disappointedly, for by this time the doctor had taken all the romance out of atoms for me, "do you know there are any atoms, anyway?"

"Is there a one?" said Dr. Abbot with a laugh, "we're on the wrong track. Don't ask."

"You mean maybe all the scientists are mistaken?" I exclaimed incredulously. "That atoms are just a theory and perhaps there isn't any such thing?"

"Well, suppose there isn't," rejoined the doctor. "Mistakes are what science learns by."

After that what are you going to believe about science?

LEO HALTERMAN FACES ELECTRIC CHAIR DEATH

Found Guilty of Murdering Half-Brother and Wife; Mercy Not Recommended

Washington Courthouse, O., Feb. 26—Death in the electric chair is the penalty faced today by Leo Halterman, confessed slayer of his half-brother and the latter's wife, as the result of a verdict returned late yesterday by a jury which deliberated his case after an 11-day trial.

The jury found him guilty of murder in the first degree, without recommendation of mercy.

Halterman was taken back to county jail to await the filing of a motion for a new trial by his attorneys, after sentence is pronounced, probably during the next few days.

He showed no signs of emotion at the verdict, although his aged mother, who testified in his behalf, collapsed after he left the courtroom.

Halterman confessed that he shot his half-brother, Charles Halterman, with whom he lived on a farm at Blessing's Corner, and later beat to death Mrs. Charles Halterman. He pleaded not guilty and sought to justify the killing on the grounds of self defense, and accidental shooting.

140 ARRESTED

Federal Narcotic Agents Continue Long Series of Raids

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 26—Arrests by federal narcotic officers neared the 150-mark today as a score of government agents under Arthur Smith, chief of the internal revenue department's intelligence unit of seven southern states, continued a long series of raids that started late yesterday.

The raids were said to have followed several weeks of quiet investigation by special 'under cover' operatives.

Suspects from Michigan and Texas were included in the number of those held.

TO REVISE METHODS

Cincinnati, Feb. 26—A revision of fire inspection methods was predicted to be made here shortly by chamber of commerce officials today, who feared that an attempt might be made to raise fire insurance rates here.

JAMES BEARD IS GIVEN DECISION IN CIVIL CASE

Judge Martin Rules Plaintiff Lacks Evidence To Support Commission Claim

A suit for $750 brought by Lloyd Campbell against James Beard, the largest civil action started in the local Municipal Court since it began functioning June 1, was heard yesterday afternoon by Municipal Judge Martin, who decided in favor of Beard.

Campbell claimed that Beard was due him as a commission on the sale of mortgage notes owned by Beard. Judge Martin held that there was no evidence to show that Campbell was party to the transaction entitled to the commission and the petition was ordered dismissed.

L. E. Myers appeared as Attorney for Beard and Campbell argued his own case, not being represented by counsel.

Under terms of the contract prevailing rules for the local court, suits involving amounts up to $1,000 can be started in the municipal. In the two months of the court which functionally operated here, and which were terminated when the Municipal Court began functioning, civil actions were limited to $300.

AFFIDAVIT WITHDRAWN WHEN CASE IS SETTLED

An affidavit filed in Municipal Court yesterday against Ray Miller, charging him with failure to provide for his three-year-old son, was withdrawn when Miller agreed to pay $5 for the child's support. The action was brought by officers of the Marion County Humane Society.

BLAMES WINTER

Depression Causes Epidemic of Suicides, Says College Head

Berkeley, Cal., Feb. 26—The present depression of business and industry is the result of a "psychological condition" caused by the winter, and a state of mental depression is the natural result of the University of California.

"These suicides," he said, "coming as they do at the end of a long winter, are the result of depression caused perhaps by lack of sleep or food but of ultimate cause economic have had a part. Just as the winter and a state of mental depression is the natural result of Professor W. W. Campbell said.

The Great Question

BY REV. B. E. WILLIAMSON
Pastor, Oakland Evangelical Church

Jesus is the [illegible] Pilate for trial. Pilate's verdict [illegible] "I find no fault in him." The [illegible] release of a prisoner [illegible] of the feast and the choice of Pilate as [illegible] the great question, [illegible] "What I do then with Jesus who is called Christ?" The man chosen [illegible] for the release of Barabbas, a noted criminal. Pilate granted the request but left [illegible] to his fate. He believed him innocent yet he was [illegible] enough to stand by his convictions. He must decide and act. After [illegible] he gave Jesus over to be crucified. What a sad day for Pilate.

Jesus is God's love gift to a sinning and prodigal world. He died to save [illegible]. He came not only to save but to be companion, friend and helper. He stands before all men and all must face the question, "What will I do then with Jesus?"

I may ignore him, pay no attention to him, live as if he had not died for me. I may live as if he had no claim upon my life. Great men have faced this question. Aaron Burr when a student at Princeton faced it through the influence of a Christian professor. He paused, considered and finally deliberately decided to ignore Christ, saying "If Christ will let me alone, I will let him alone forever." He opened his heart to a life of sin, debauched himself, disgraced the great Edwards family known for its great number of men and women who became eminent in church, school and state, and died as he had lived—without Christ.

I may love and crown him. Thousands have loved him and crowned him in their lives and blessed the world by their influence; men and women in all walks of life. Think of Moody and Sankey, Luther and Wesley, Wanamaker and Heintz, the Christian business men, and many others who are enrolled in the Lamb's book of life. What gracious influence business men can have who are positive Christians.

Years ago a young lawyer came home and told his wife he had accepted Christ. They were going to have company that evening and he said, "After supper I want the servants to come into the drawing room while I read the Bible and pray." His wife feared he would be embarrassed in the presence of his lawyer friends, some of whom were skeptics and scoffers and discouraged him, but he said, "Wife, it's the best time I have taken Christ into my life and I feel that I should ask him into the best room in the house." After supper he led the way to the drawing room and prayed to God in the presence of his company. That man was Judge McLean, one of the finest judges of the supreme court who stood for Christ for over 40 years. What a grand confession! Christ can meet the deepest needs of the human soul. He seeks a place in every life. Let every one who has the great question yet to answer, "What then shall I do with Jesus," decide to love and crown him Lord in their hearts.

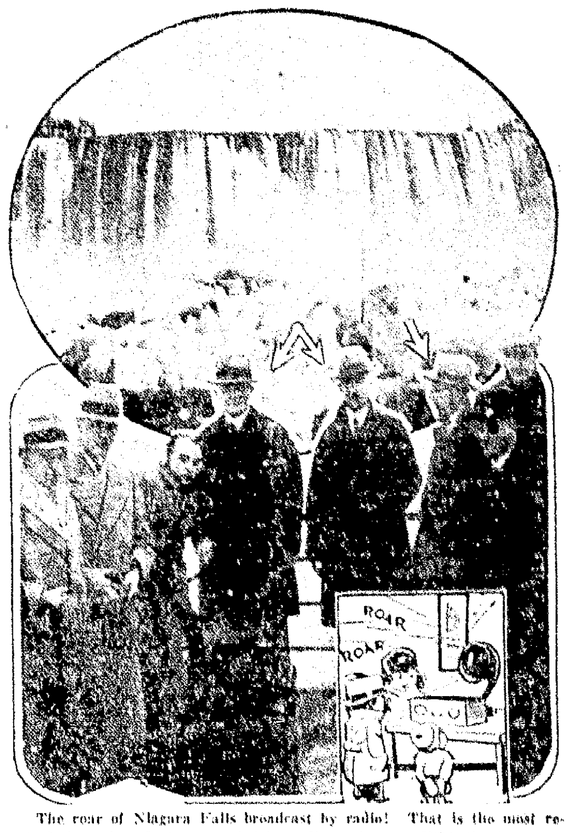
ROAR OF NIAGARA BROADCAST



The roar of Niagara Falls broadcast by radio! That is the most recent of the unique feats attempted by radio engineers. WEAF Planning to Build Most Modern Broadcasting Radio Station in World

Proposed Transmitter To Be Constructed by Eminent Engineers on Long Island; Expect To Have Plant Ready for Operation by Summer

New York, Feb. 26—A new WEAF, planned to be the most modern broadcasting station in the world, will soon rise to take the place of the present station, it is announced by Merlin Hall Aylesworth, President of the National Broadcasting Company.

"The new station," Mr. Aylesworth explained, "will carry more clearly and perfectly the programs of the company. The present WEAF transmitter located atop the Bell Telephone laboratories is interfering with the important research work of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and it was a part of the agreement of the officials of the National Broadcasting Co. and the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. when WEAF was sold that the station should be relocated at the earliest convenient date."

The most eminent radio engineers in the country, included in the board of consulting engineers of the National Broadcasting Co. have drawn the plans for the rebirth of WEAF. The new station, which will be located on Long Island is expected to be in operation by early summer. The board of consulting engineers includes such distinguished radio scientists as Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, chief broadcast engineer of the Radio Corporation of America; Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, consulting engineer of the General Electric Co., and Frank Conrad, consulting engineer of the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Co.

The latest principles of construction and equipment will be incorporated in this great station, it is stated by Mr. Aylesworth. Located on Long Island, and consequently between the two great steamship lanes covered by the great Atlantic liners on the south and the coast steamers on the north, the new WEAF will have many advantages, according to Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, chairman of the board of consulting engineers of the National Broadcasting Co. The troubles heretofore experienced by radio listeners from telegraphic code signals and from and stations in the vicinity will be largely eliminated by the new station.

"Locating WEAF in the open spaces of the country," Dr. Goldsmith continued, "the 'radio shadows' which have caused a blight on radio reception for many listeners situated in some city areas will be avoided to a large extent. These 'shadows' have been due to the fact that the great masses of steel in city buildings often absorb the signals from stations located in their vicinity, and therefore, affected reception to thousands of listeners located in certain areas.

"The power of the new station will be adjusted to give adequate reception to the listeners within the normal service area of a high quality network station. The signals produced from the new WEAF will be entirely adequate also, to give reliable reception practically at all times, notwithstanding man made or natural electrical disturbances which sometimes fill the air.

"The new station will represent the complete application of the principle of remote control of transmitting stations situated a considerable distance from broadcasting stations."

It is expected that the new station will be in operation in the early summer of this year, and it is hoped that the first program from the new building and grouped studios, at 711 Fifth-ave, New York City, will be radiated from this station when the company moves to its new quarters about June 1.

The Great Question

BY REV. H. E. WILLIAMSON
Pastor, Oakland Evangelical Church

"I find in him no fault." The customary release of a prisoner at the time of the feast was the occasion of Pilate asking the great question, "What shall I do then with Jesus who is called Christ?" The mob clamored for the release of Barabbas, a noted criminal. Pilate granted the request but left Jesus in his hands. He believed him innocent yet he was not man enough to stand by his convictions. He must decide and act. And succumbing to gross desire cast to be crucified. What a sad day for Pilate.

Jesus is God's love gift to a sinning and prodigal world. He died to save such men as Pilate. He came not only to save but to be companion, friend and helper. He stands before all men and all must face the question, "What shall I do then with Jesus?"

I may ignore him, pay no attention to him; live as if he had not died for me. I may live as if he had no claim upon my life. Great men have faced this question. Aaron Burr when a student at Princeton faced it squarely. The influence of a Christian professor, He paused, considered and quickly deliberately decided to ignore Christ, saying "If Christ will let me alone, I will be him alone forever." He opened his heart to a life of sin, debauched himself, disgraced the great Edwards family known for its great number of men and women who became eminent in church, school and state, and died as he had lived—without Christ.

I may love and crown him. Thousands have loved him and crowned him in their lives and blessed the world by their influence; men and women of noble and rich life. Think of Moody and Sankey, Luther and Wesley, Wanamaker and Hendrix, the Christian business men, and many others who are enrolled in the Lamb's book of life. What gracious influence business men can have who are positive Christians.

Years ago a young lawyer came home and told his wife he had accepted Christ. They were going to have company that evening and he said, "After supper I want the servants to come into the drawing room while I read the Bible and pray." His wife feared he would be embarrassed in the presence of his lawyer friends, some of whom were skeptics and scoffers and discouraged him, but he said, "Wife, it's the first time I have taken Christ into my life and I feel that I should ask him into the best room in the house." After supper he led the way to the drawing room and prayed to God in the presence of his company. That man was Judge McLean, one of the finest judges of the supreme court who stood for Christ for over 40 years. What a grand confession! Christ can meet the deepest needs of the human soul. He seeks a place in every life. Let every one who has the great question yet to answer, "What then shall I do with Jesus," decide to face and crown him Lord in their hearts.

ROAR OF NIAGARA BROADCAST

The roar of Niagara Falls broadcast by radio! That is the most recent of the unique feats attempted by radio engineers. With the icy spray from the surging cataracts falling upon them, the little group of engineers and officials, above, are shown gathered about the microphone on Luna Island at the brink of the American fall. Arrows to the left, point to Mayor William Laughlin, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Mayor Harry Stephens, of Niagara Falls, Ont. The arrow to the right indicates G. L. WEAF Planning to Build Most Modern Broadcasting Radio Station in World

Proposed Transmitter To Be Constructed by Eminent Engineers on Long Island; Expect To Have Plant Ready for Operation by Summer

New York, Feb. 26—A new WEAF, planned to be the most modern broadcasting station in the world, will soon rise to take the place of the present station, it is announced by Merlin Hall Aylesworth, President of the National Broadcasting Company.

"The new station," Mr. Aylesworth explained, "will carry more clearly and perfectly the programs of the company. The present WEAF transmitter located atop the Bell Telephone laboratories is interfering with the important research work of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and it was a part of the agreement of the officials of the National Broadcasting Co. and the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. when WEAF was sold that the station should be relocated at the earliest convenient date."

The most eminent radio engineers in the country, included in the board of consulting engineers of the National Broadcasting Co. have drawn the plans for the rebirth of WEAF. The new station, which will be located on Long Island is expected to be in operation by early summer. The board of consulting engineers includes such distinguished radio scientists as Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, chief broadcast engineer of the Radio Corporation of America; Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, consulting engineer of the General Electric Co., and Frank Conrad, consulting engineer of the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Co.

The latest principles of construction and equipment will be incorporated in this great station, it is stated by Mr. Aylesworth. Located on Long Island, and consequently between the two great steamship lanes covered by the great Atlantic liners on the south and the sound steamers on the north, the new WEAF will have many advantages, according to Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, chairman of the board of consulting engineers of the National Broadcasting Co. The troubles heretofore experienced by radio listeners from telegraphic code signals and from amateur stations in the vicinity will be largely eliminated by the new station.

"I relocating WEAF in the open spaces of the country," Dr. Goldsmith continued, "the 'radio shadows' which have caused a blight on radio reception for many listeners situated in some city areas will be avoided to a large extent. These 'shadows' have been due to the fact that the great masses of steel in city buildings often absorb the signals from stations located in their vicinity, and therefore, attracted reception to thousands of listeners located in certain areas.

"The power of the new station will be adjusted to give adequate reception to the listeners within the normal service area of a high quality network station. The signals provided from the new WEAF will be entirely adequate also, to give reliable reception practically at all times, notwithstanding man made or natural electrical disturbances which sometimes fill the air.

"The new station will represent the complete application of the principle of remote control of transmitting stations situated a considerable distance from broadcasting stations."

It is expected that the new station will be in operation in the early summer of this year, and it is hoped that the first program from the new building and grouped studios, at 711 Fifth av, New York City, will be radiated from this station when the company moves to its new quarters about June 1.

Regarding County Aid.

This paper feels that there is decided merit in the suggestion made by the West Center Street Improvement association to the county board of commissioners, something over a week ago, that they extend county aid in financing the improvement of west Center street, next year, when the reconditioning of that thoroughfare is to be taken up.

Center street is one of the chief streets of the city. More than that it affords two of the chief approaches to the city and is a part of the Harding highway, one of the great east-and-west routes for vehicular travel of the country. If there is one thoroughfare more than any other in the city which justifies county assistance, Center street, for these reasons, is that thoroughfare.

There was a time, back in the days when Marion was a struggling village, when there was no occasion for county aid, nor would there have been justification for it had call been made, for at that time the cost of highway maintenance was trifling and the valuation of the village for taxation was small compared with that of the remainder of the county. But that time is no more. The aggregate tax duplicate represented by Marion property is now a quarter more than that of the remainder of the county. The tax valuation of the city is $50,000,000 against that of $40,000,000 for all the county outside the city, thus the city pays $100,000 to the county road fund raised on the two-mill levy to $80,000 paid by the remainder of the county.

As the proposed improvement is on one of the chief highways of the county; as it affords two of the most traveled approaches to the county seat; as it is a link in one of the great highways of the land—one in which the people of Marion county as well as Marion should take special pride, from the fact that it bears the name of a former president of the United States who went to Washington from Marion county as well as from Marion city, we believe the commissioners would be justified in rendering the aid sought did no other reasons than these just enumerated obtain. But when to them is added the fact that Marion pays into the county road fund $20,000 more than is contributed by the county outside of the city of Marion, we believe that it will have to be conceded that common justice impels the meeting of the Improvement association's request. But aside from the justice, the fairness, of the thing, this would be the gracious course for the commissioners to pursue, and we believe that in following it, if they so decide, they will receive the approval and commendation of the people of the county generally.

The McNary-Haugen Bill Veto.

The wires told us, Friday, that the vetoing of the McNary-Haugen bill by President Coolidge occasioned little surprise in Washington. It would not have been much of a venture had the statement at the same time been made that there would be little surprise throughout the country over the action taken by him on the bill. That he would veto it was almost a foregone conclusion. He could not well have done otherwise. He could not have done otherwise and retained his self respect as chief executive of the land.

The McNary-Haugen bill (the so-called farm relief bill) was a proposal the avowed purpose of which was to rescue the farmers, or at least some of them, from the ills from which they have been suffering for a number of years. That it would have accomplished the purpose for which it was said to have been designed is open to doubt. Possibly there was never greater division among the farmer element of the land than occasioned by the proposed measure. That there was ground for this doubt is beyond question. That there was ground for the veto of it by the president was ably brought out by him in the extended message transmitted by him in returning the vetoed bill to congress.

President Coolidge held that the bill, were it a law, would not benefit the farmer; that it would not succeed in providing a practical method of controlling the agricultural surplus, which is the heart of the whole problem; that the administrative difficulties involved were sufficient to wreck the plan; that the bill would subject the whole agricultural industry to the tyranny of bureaucratic regulation and control; that the bill would impose the burden of its support to a large degree upon farmers who would not benefit by it; that the whole effect of the plan would be continuously to stimulate and pile up increasing surpluses beyond the world demand; that it was essentially a price-fixing bill; that it was not framed to aid the farmers as a whole and was calculated to injure rather than promote the public welfare; that it favored certain farm products and discriminated against others, and he asked: "Why, if this is a true relief measure are all other products left out except those mentioned?"

"It seems also most incredible," the president said in his message, "that the producers of hogs, corn, wheat, rice, tobacco and cotton should be offered a scheme of legislative relief in which the only persons who are guaranteed a profit are the exporters, packers, millers, cotton spinners and other processors.

"Clearly this legislation involves governmental fixing of prices. It gives the proposed federal board almost unlimited authority to fix prices on designated commodities. This is price-fixing furthermore on some of the nation's basic foods and materials; government price-fixing once started has alike no justice and no end. It is an economic folly from which this country has every right to be spared.

"This legislation proposes, in effect, that congress shall delegate to a federal farm board, nominated by farmers, the power to fix and collect a tax, called an equalization fee, on certain products produced by those farmers. This certainly contemplates a remarkable delegation of taxing power.

"This so-called equalization fee is not a tax for purposes of revenue in the accepted sense. It is a tax for the special benefit of particular groups. As a direct tax on the vital necessaries of life it represents the most vicious form of taxation. Its real effect is an employment of the coercive powers of government to the end that certain special groups of farmers and processors may profit temporarily at the expense of other farmers and of the community-at-large."

But to us the chief fault in the proposed measure—and so the president must have considered it as he submits a ten-page opinion by the attorney general in support of his view—is that it was unconstitutional in that it usurped the power of the president, taking away from him by act of congress a power which is his under the constitution of the United States—the appointive power. The bill, had it become a law, would have left the selection of the federal board of twelve members to one element of the people of the country, making the president a mere figure-head in this respect, a mere messenger to transmit the selections to congress.

The McNary-Haugen bill was supported by the farming interests of a section of the Middle West. The cotton and rice growers' influence was secured by naming their product in the bill. Another influence behind it was purely political, the idea being to weaken the president with the farming element of the Middle West behind the measure, reliance being placed on the assumed certainty that the president would veto it, as he did. Still another element was that which is forever seeking to put more government into business—the champions of government ownership and government control—and yet another element is that in the senate which so long has been seeking to wrest power from the executive and make the senate the highest power in the land.

Granting that the farmers may need relief, Mr. Coolidge vetoed the bill, just as it was anticipated he would do, and in so doing he did well. As we have said, he could not have done otherwise and maintained the respect which is his due as chief executive of the land.

The Hon. Mr. Radner's attorneys demand that the court up in Canton set him free. They must imagine that the underworld is still running things up there.

This talk about putting quail back in the same bird class is going to prove futile. People will never again stand for the hunting of quail on their premises by outsiders. Quail makes for too good eating for that.

There's not the slightest occasion for "Uncle Henry" Ford to grow weary of wealth. Any paragrapher can tell him that's a form of ennui easy to overcome.

No matter what the people of Ohio may think of their legislators the more fact that a law for such salary raise was contemplated, were it to stop there, would show that our legislators have a very mean opinion of themselves.

WHY NOT MAKE DELINQUENT PARENTS SHARE THE PUNISHMENT OF THEIR DELINQUENT CHILDREN?

Germs of Scourge Carried by Hand.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

What did we learn from the terrible influenza epidemic of 1918? The first thing we learned is that influenza is a hand conveyed disease. The germs from the nose and throat carries the germs, and this moisture reaching the lips or the nostrils of another will lead to the infection of a susceptible person.

But the common way to get the germs is from the hands of the influenza patients who pass the germs to toilet articles, eating utensils, door knobs, pencils, or anything liable to be handled by others. More commonly, of course, hand-to-hand contact is the way the infection is conveyed.

Lowered physical vitality, fear, fatigue, poor ventilation, loss of sleep, and any act which lowers resistance, will prepare the way for the germs of dread influenza.

The following are rules of conduct which will help to ward off the disease:

1. Wash the hands frequently and invariably do so before eating.

2. Keep the hands from the face, and, on returning home at night, wash the face with soap and an abundance of water. Wash out the opening of the nostrils whenever the face is bathed.

3. Brush the teeth thoroughly three times a day.

4. If you have occasion to cough or sneeze, cover the face with the handkerchief, and, under no circumstances, receive in your face the moist blast of another's sneezing or coughing.

5. Eat in no place where the table utensils are not boiled in the cleansing process. Eat sparingly whenever and wherever you eat.

6. Sleep a lot in a well ventilated room.

7. Go about your affairs calmly and unafraid.

8. If you find yourself sneezing, with eyes running, and a feeling of feverishness, go home, take a hot bath, and go to bed. If you are not all right the next morning, call your doctor.

You go to bed, not alone for your own good, but to protect society. If your symptoms are really due to influenza, you are a danger to persons. You can give the disease to others. On this account, a decent observance of the Golden rule will cause you to stay away from your fellows.

But by going to bed you will cut short the attack and lessen the dangers of the disease to you.

These simple rules will help to prevent the spread of an uncomfortable and serious ailment.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Even when men make the mistake of trying to set limits to what can be learned. There is no limit on knowledge. Arthur Compton, great Chicago physicist, said in 1924 that we had just learned about the rays that we'd be sure of. Any more study was just a waste of time. A few years later the invention of the spectroscope opened an entirely new field and made it possible to make discoveries in the atom that took us into entirely unheard regions of the range of human experience.

And there would have been no method to discover that matter where it is now to its ever-so-tiny substance that we have to-day and stars.

The fathers of the republic who provided for free speech and a free press did well. But it is not that they didn't have the superhuman power to do more and to provide for such a general distribution of education and good taste that those who have the right of free speech and free press would know better than to abuse that right. Good taste and good sense should always accompany the exercise of every right. New York tabloid newspapers which run a sewer from the court-room to the family fireside are inside the boundaries of a free press, but they are outside the boundaries of education and good taste.

The men who give money to charity are by no means the only benefactors. If you love humanity, somebody says, put it into the pay envelope. The great manufacturers, merchants, business men who are keeping thousands at work are just as surely doing a work for humanity as those who give away big sums. They are benefactors. On the other hand these leaders of the industrial parade make great sums of money for themselves. Therein lies the opportunity for unselfishness and direct giving. It is a fine thing to keep thousands of men at work. It is also a fine thing to take some of the product of their labor and build up great enterprises and great institutions for human betterment.

Vagrant Verse.

THE POOL OF SLEEP.

I dragged my body to the pool of sleep,
Longing to drink; but ere my throbbing lip
From the cool flood one Divesdrop might sip,
The wave sank fleetuant to some unknown deep.
With aching eyes that could not even weep,
I saw the dark, deluding water slip,
Slow eddying, down; the weeds and mosses drip
With mud-laden waste. I watched the sweet tide creep
A little higher but to fall more fast.
Fevered and wounded in the strife of men
I burned with loathsh, till endurance past,
The feet crept upward; sank, and rose again—
Swelled slowly, slowly, slowly—till at last
My seared lips met the soothing wave: and then. . . .

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, Feb. 25—News has drifted back from the far Bering trail that Jim Hazen, who founded the starry trail. For many years he was a feature writer of the newspapers—perhaps one month in Nome and a few months later under the blaze of the Southern cross.

He saved nothing for selfishness and yet in the past twenty-five years, during which he felt the hardness of the way of the world. He launched many ideas which others received credit and then drifted on the matter of a ruthless ship.

He was a little unsavory and of the hard-fisted man at the block bottle, but his intellect survived until the last and his pen paper correspondents whose friendship he furnished several [illegible] decades for the gifted Mussolini.

He opened my own path recently when I saw him for [illegible] and [illegible] paper he jotted two ideas to a [illegible] which were passed along to me and inspiration for more letters from [illegible] any other I ever wrote.

He was an idea man for this [illegible] was then marooned in a lonely [illegible] Mexico. For this he was content with a monthly check. Park row offered [illegible] salaries, but he would always write [illegible] reply: "I can't stay anchored."

His longest tenure was perhaps [illegible] Keeley on the Chicago Tribune as a [illegible] editor. His brilliant ideas were not [illegible] to journalism. Broke one day in a [illegible] city, he suggested an American sausage [illegible] fast to a hotel-keeper.

He asked only for a small percentage of profits. The idea is still making the [illegible] keeper huge sums. Handy collected his [illegible] for a time, but the restless spirit [illegible] him and he was next heard of 4,000 miles away—aflame with a new idea.

New York clings to its small-town customs. On Forty-Seventh street and Sixth avenue, the very heart of the Tenderloin, a gentleman in a wide hat and wearing a white gaberdine suit, a buckskin suit, mounted a box. He began to exhort the virtues of an Indian remedy. He told how it would "whiten the teeth, harden the gums, tone up the liver, eradicate pin worms, remove chilblains"—and many other things I wish I could remember. He collected a crowd and sold fourteen bottles before a policeman hove into sight and he moved on his way.

Writing in the first person leaves the door wide open for scorching comment about one's importance. And yet in years of employing the personal pronoun, only three caustic letters have been received. One today was a pip and perhaps justifiable, but it was completely spoiled by being anonymous.

A hotel on Broadway has three bellboys and a night clerk who have occupied the same posts for more than twenty years. All have married, raised families and built homes. They are white-haired now and have refused an offer of the management to pension them.

In other days hotel clerks along Broadway sections were known as sports. They were the cherub face, collar ad types often seen today. They usually had flaring mustaches and wore gay cravats, checkered vests and expensive watch chains and diamond rings. In off hours they frequented the gaming tables and gained fleeting reputations for holding their liquor well. They were migratory birds of passage and always on the wing. Assuredly they were bachelors and heavy favorites with ladies.—Copyright, 1927.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

I reckon there's nothing too mean for women to say to one another at bridge parties. That's when all's fair, and the good knives come out with harpoons to toss at their neighbors with a pleasant smile. But even on railroad trains, you hear them get pretty wicked sometimes and then. If neighbor women travel any distance together, they begin to get a little [illegible] less and maybe tired of each other. Then they sharpen up their barbs and fire them off.

A blonde and a brunette were talking on a suburban train out of Chicago one day not long ago, and the blonde says: "I just came from the beauty parlor to the train, you know."

"My dear!" the other one says, pretending to be so friendly. "Just imagine that! I did you say the beauty parlor was closed."

Neither one pretended that this was home. But the brunette says after a while: "And speaking of beauty parlors, you know Madame Bonjour wrote me a perfectly [illegible] letter, asking me if she could not have a portrait to hang in her shop. But I [illegible] thing of it, you know!"

"Of course not," says the blonde. "That's terrible, my dear. She was after my money. She wants a picture to hang beside the picture of a beauty, you know, and she going to [illegible] them 'before' and 'after,' and my [illegible] exactly the same view of it that you did. It is getting a little cold in this car, my [illegible]—Copyright, 1927.

CLOTURE ASKED

Drys Try to Override Wet Filibuster Against Andrews Bill

Washington, Feb. 26—In an effort to override a wet filibuster against the Andrews prohibition reorganization bill, senate drys this afternoon filed a petition asking cloture to shut off debate. It was the fourth petition for cloture filed in the senate in the last few days.

The drys scored a tactical victory first by getting the Andrews bill before the senate during the "morning hour" by skillful parliamentary maneuvering. With the bill under consideration, Senator Jones, Republican, of Washington, filed the cloture petition. It will be voted upon at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Its adoption is virtually certain.

issue proposed by Representative Ralph W. Emmons of East Rochester, Columbiana County, now pending in the highways committee of the house. This requires a constitutional amendment and would authorize issue of $25,000,000 serially, as the funds are needed for state's share.

The crossings selected are only a fourth of all in the state, but were chosen because more trains and more automobiles cross them than any others. At practically every crossing mentioned a number of white crosses are said to grow and flourish. Schlesinger's program will be submitted to the legislature next week.

The financing proposed in the Emmons resolution would cover only state's share. Existing laws require the railroads and the state to go fifty-fifty, unless other agreements are drawn.

EUROPEAN CORN BORER SPECIMENS ON DISPLAY

Exhibit at Marion County Bank Attracts Large Number of Visitors

Much interest was shown by business visitors at the Marion County Bank today in the European Corn Borer exhibit on display in the bank lobby.

Actual specimens of the borer were preserved in alcohol with a section of affected corn stalk beside the exhibit. Colored illustrations of the borer in the egg, larva or grub, pupa and moth stages are shown. Male and female specimens included in the last named group are shown. The workings of the borer on corn stalks and the external and internal marks to be cut of corn are illustrated. A map of Ohio showing infested and quarantined areas complete the exhibit. Miami, Harrison and Morrow counties are now classified partly and wholly by the latest extension of the quarantine line that has been moved southward from Lake Erie at regular intervals for the past three years and threatened to touch nearly the entire state. Shaded portions on the map indicate counties in the northern part of the state and bordering on the lake region where it is planned to attempt the enforcement of control measures against the borer about farmers.

E. L. Bush, cashier of the bank stated that the exhibit had been given to the bank for display purposes through the courtesy of W. H. Coughlin, president of the Marion County Farm Bureau. The exhibit was issued from Ohio State University and the colored illustrations prepared by Arthur Gibson, dominion entomologist, under the direction of W. B. Mothwell, inventor of agriculture, Dominion of Canada.

DROP PLANS FOR MORE FREE SUNDAY CONCERTS

Mrs. Harold K. Mouser, Lecture-Recital Club Head, Announces Decision

No more Sunday afternoon concerts will be given this season it was announced today by Mrs. Harold K. Mouser, president of the senior Lecture Recital Club under whose auspices they were presented. The decision was made at a meeting of members of the board held recently.

The series was sponsored by members of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs and the three programs given in the Marion Theatre. While it was thought perhaps one or two more might be given this season the idea was abandoned partly because there were no funds to finance their presentation in the theater and partly on account of the Lenten season and revivals in a number of the churches, where it was thought perhaps a series might be presented.

"We are delighted with the response and appreciation of those who attended the concerts," Mrs. Mouser said. If tentative plans of the club are carried out another series will be given next year beginning earlier in the season, she announced.

SENATE REFUSES GAG RULE ON BOULDER DAM

Adverse Vote Kills All Chance for Passage of Bill

Washington, Feb. 26—The senate's Muscle Shoals battle for enactment of the Norris bill for erecting a dam at Boulder Canyon in the Colorado River ended this afternoon when the senate refused to invoke cloture to limit debate on it.

The adverse vote killed all chance for passage of the bill at the present session of congress. The result was a victory for the little group of senators, headed by Ashurst, Democrat, of Arizona, who have filibustered against the measure for the last eight days, and rejected futile the heroic efforts of Senator Johnson, Republican, of California, to force a final vote before adjournment.

Following the vote the senate immediately abandoned consideration of the measure for other bills upon which cloture also has been demanded.

To have applied cloture required a two-thirds vote of the senators present. As there were 91 present, that figure went to defeat by the narrow margin of two votes.

COOLIDGE VETO

veto message. Mr. Coolidge described the bill as unconstitutional, economically unsound, unworkable, unjust in effect a fanatical measure written by economic monomaniacs.

Dawes To Fight

General Dawes, as the co-author of the Dawes plan, as a banker of long standing and experience, rather considers himself an economist. He, at least, is not expected by his friends to relish the verbal darts shot in his direction by the veto message. Governor Lowden also has claim to being something of an economist. He has been a successful banker, lawyer, farmer, as well as governing the state of Illinois for some years.

Neither Governor Lowden nor General Dawes has commented for publication upon the president's message a fact of more or less significance in itself.

The Democrats, of course, were extracting today an enormous amount of gratification at the prospect of a Republican civil war. Democratic leaders figured their party stands to gain which ever way the Republican cat jumps. If President Coolidge is renominated they have visions of the whole normally Republican grain belt, from Indiana to the Rockies, going Democratic in 1928. They do not believe Mr. Coolidge can recapture the territory that they believe he has alienated by his veto. If, on the other hand, the nomination should fall to Governor Lowden or General Dawes, they believe the schism in the Republican party will be so great as to militate against either's chances. In any event, a Republican fight will be grist in the Democratic mill, they figure.

There still is another politically minded faction, maintaining more or less silence, who believe that the fireworks will mostly have died down by the time convention time rolls around some 14 months hence—and that, however, serious the Republican differences seem now they will be buried and forgotten by June of next year.

As for the farm bloc, they are going to continue the fight for the McNary-Haugen bill right into the seventieth congress. In that congress the Republicans will have no such majorities as they have in the present congress. Actually, the Republicans will not have a working control, although they have a paper majority. In that congress, it was predicted today, there will be a pretty fight between the backers of the McNary-Haugen bill and the Coolidge adherents who will sponsor the Curtis-Crisp bill, or something like it.

The Farmer

Is one of those fellows who often needs money. So do all of us. But unlike many others he is better able to pay it certain days than others, because his income is not forthcoming each week or month as other workers.

Realizing this, Marion Chattel Loan Company, the S. Stafford long ago arranged to serve farmers' clientele suited to the needs of the farmer. He may borrow money now and arrange for payment several months in the future, during which time he need pay nothing whatever. A nominal interest charge is made only for the time the money is used.

A great many farmers have been quick to recognize the convenience of such a method, and every man who operates a farm owes it to himself to determine how useful such a service can become. Adv.

An easy triumph of wifehood

YOU are a wife. You must be a nurse, a home decorator, a domestic scientist, a seamstress, a laundress, a beauty specialist, a bureau of information, a buyer, a banker, a hostess. You must be all these professionals almost every day, yet you must not be tired at dinner. It must be a good dinner. You must have good news. And you must not only keep up your professions, but grow wiser in them each day.

Sounds hard, but is it? Not if you use your daily university—the advertisements. For here are the best safety-firsts; the most beautiful, most lasting draperies and home furnishings, and how to arrange them best; new food or new delicious ways of preparing and serving known foods; the finest in dress, in cold creams, hair washes, manicure methods; news of insurance; thrifty buying; happier ways to entertain; something of business, literature, art, music—of almost every science known.

The information in advertisements is latest and correct. Yet a brief glance is sufficient to give you their news. Just a daily reading of the advertisements—and there's an easy triumph of wifehood! In selecting, buying, arranging, using. In keeping fresh for dinner. Saving work, saving time, saving money—being wise!

Reading advertisements regularly means keeping to the fore. Read these, here, today

HEAVY SATIN IN SILVER TONE USED FOR EFFECTIVENESS

One of the most effective frocks of the season is this simply cut evening gown. Heavy sat in silver tone is used, and the decorations consist of corsage at waist and shoulder.

Satin as expressed in evening gowns is frequently seen. Period frocks with bodice of heavy satin and many flounced tulle skirt are particularly effective in white or cream—and pastel shades are also popular in satin.

Fad Renewed
Letter Paper
Clothes

BY EDNA DUTTON

HISTORY repeats itself every so often it is said, and I am prone to believe this is true, in fact I am sure of it in some cases. Seeing the gaily colored and out of a quite recent photographic gallery where I myself once set up in business in our home town, is fact I am sure that the fad of a decade ago has broken out anew. Again the youngsters must have their memory books and those of more mature years extol give to them all of past days in the fine. If you are hoping for [illegible] you better best seek elsewhere there are no high powered [illegible] or graphophones to beguile one's [illegible] nor rich hangings or settings to drive away any possible [illegible] that the world isn't all pose.

It's all business, and even some the customers take the procedure [illegible] Good parents comb a straggly [illegible] or adjust a wry coat lapel while [illegible] have proven themselves before the [illegible] by four mirrors for a last inspection before facing the camera. It's all done right out and above board and [illegible] watch for the birdie with the rest of customers giving you the once over with a cool calculating optic and you just know they are making a mental note of what they aren't going to do when they're sitting in your place. The next trial is getting them and it's worth it. Take them home and hunt up the last penny picure you had taken, (they're a little more expensive now), and enjoy a good laugh.

MANUFACTURERS of letter paper are having troubles of their own, for which of course our present jazz age is responsible. They seek their couches at night in fear and trembling lest over night the females of the land will decide to cast aside the present style of letter paper. Time was, to be accurate, up until about four years ago, there was little change in the style of letter paper and envelopes and for most part the demand was for white, particularly for the conservative folk. Since no woman becomes old any more most every one enjoys the vivid and almost garish designs. Milady may pen her note on one style for a time but within three months at least, grown tired of it and is combing the stores for something new and "different." Colors which are favorites in ready-to-wear clothes govern to a great extent the colors used in stationary, is the statement of those who claim to know.

IN this day of competitive business folks it behooves one to give attention to one's battle raiment it was decided at a meeting of progressive business women recently. It is no longer the thing for the business woman to come to work six days in the week wearing her meek little navy blue suit or dress befurbished with modest collar and cuffs, but she should all but swagger in in her scarlet jersey of henna colored flannel. When in doubt, wear henna, is the word that goes out. If you have a big deal on, don a red dress, walk into the conference with the confidence that only a red dress could back up, and you're bound to take home the rubles.

Says Her Husband Doesn't Play Fair With Credito

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

WHAT is the rock on which most marriages [illegible] smash, I wonder? Is it not the failure of one or the other of the spouses to "play fair?" Sometimes it is the wife who expects to be protected from all the roughness of life and given all the sweets. Sometimes it is the husband who [illegible] his wife is the one to bear the brunt of things.

The following is the wife's side of the story, and she declares her husband's failure to "play fair" is killing her love. Who is offender to blame. I wonder in the failure of this "[illegible] fifty" proposition.

"DEAR MRS. LEE"—I am a bitterly disillusioned woman. I was carefully brought up at home and guarded from everything that was disagreeable. When I was first married my husband was so tender and thoughtful of me but now, when trouble comes, he is letting me take the brunt of it. I want to do my share, Mrs. Lee. We have contracted some debts through unemployment and illness, and although we are trying to pay them off we are only making enough at present to keep up our current expenses. I am economizing on everything and trying hard to save a penny here and there to pay on these debts. When collectors come to the door my husband is always "out," and I have to face them alone and I am so humiliated, Mrs. Lee, I could almost die. I have always stood by him and it seems so unfair to me that he will not go to the door at least part of the time and explain to them that we are trying to get back on our feet but it will take time. If when we are out we meet a man to whom we owe money my husband always tries to go another way and acts like a sneak. I feel as if it was killing my love for him. It was not our fault we are in debt so why should we act like criminals?

"Disillusioned Wife."

ALL of us are children away down inside. The big, brawny man and the dainty little woman are alike in that. We face some things bravely and then there comes along something that makes us want to creep close to some one and be protected. We women must not always be the ones to be shielded, must we? Your husband would doubtless defend you against [illegible] of physical danger [illegible] is more than he can do to [illegible] unpleasantness. You'll have to [illegible] with him I fear, my dear, if you [illegible] make him understand how [illegible] about it. It is a shame, I [illegible] that your big strong manly [illegible] weakness, but he needs your [illegible] understanding more than [illegible] he not?

Senate and House Might Pay Own Way

Farmers Strong for Anything That Has "Relief" for Label

By WILL ROGERS

WELL, all I know is just what I read in the papers. As I keep up and face the old Camera today there is a mighty lot of momentous questions facing the Commonwealth. The biggest one of the bunch is of course the Marx McHaugen" Bill. That's the bill the farmers want passed. They don't know what it is, but it says "Farmers Relief" on it and they are looking for anything with that label on it.

The old Farmer has had pretty tough sledding in the last few years, and he hears about all the Americans going to Europe every summer and to Florida every winter, and here he is. He can't leave for fear his home Bank will be watching him. He read about the Government's helping the Railroades one time when the "Iron Rust" had eat up their rails, and he believes in his heart that a few Bills passed by Congress would assist him in helping to pay some Interest on the second of third Mortgages.

Grabbing at Straws

The Farmer is not only in such a position nowadays that he is grabbing at a straw, but he is really swimming out of his way looking for the straw to grab at. The farmer does need something, but he needs everything. He not only needs shoes, and an Overcoat, but he needs Underwear, sox, Shirts, soap, Meat and bread.

So starting in to help the farmer, you got to sorter give the Government credit. Its sorter hard to tell just where to start in; when the Government come to examine the assets, they find that they are practically looking at a total loss. The trouble with the farmer up to now has been that every time somebody his thought of relief for him it has been to make it so he could borrow more money. That's whats the matter with him now. What he needs is some way to pay back, not some way to borrow more.

"Cal Didn't Like It

Course the thing is, what can be done to help him. Mr. Coolidge dident like this Bill when it was up last time, and would have vetoed it if it had passed and got to him. But the farmers have made themselves a lot stronger since then, and they might a throwed a scare into him by now and he may let it get by. Time you read this you will know. Just offhand I believe he will veto it.

Either way he jumps he is going to step on a snake. Course he is going to say he wants to help the farmers but that he dont like this particular way of helping them. Well, the Farmers will say: "Well, this way may bent no way at all. Nobody has tried any way yet." So poor Mr. Coolidge is in a pretty tight hole. Mr. Lowden is a watching him like a revenue officer, to see if he helps the farmer, and if he dont they tells him. (Mr. Lowden) is stronger than ever.

Fights Handicaps

Course we been handicapped with all of our Legislation lately, on account of all the fist fights we had in the Senate and House of Representatives. Wheeler of Montana and Carter Glass of Virginia put on the main event in the Senate. The house heard about the crowd that drew over there so they got jealous and put them one on. They matched Congressman Tincher of Medicine Lodge, Kansas (a place where I drove a cow and calf here up the trail from Texas too one time, so I wont forget Medicine Lodge, on the Medicine River). I forgot who it was Tincher swung at for awhile.

The Main Go

Then for the grand Finale they put on my old friends both of them, Sol Bloom of New York and Blanton of Texas. If I could have been there I could have patched that up, for Sol is an awful nice fellow. He is the Jewish friend of mine that gave me the letter of introduction to the Pope last year when I was going to Rome. Not only gave it to me but it worked, and I saw him. Blanton is a good fellow too. I met his family when I was in Texas last fall, but neither one got hurt, as neither one hit each other, why no harm was done.

You know come to think of it that would be a great thing. You know the Senate and the House have about ceased to draw people to the Galleries any more. Well, put these fights on and advertise them. Heflin of Alabama vs. Johnston of California. Match Jim Reeds alone against Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire, and Borah against the 2 best men you got on both sides.

Possibilities

You might arrange intersectional combats, say the best in the House against the best in the Senate, Speaker Longworth against Listener Dawes. You could turn the Capitol over to Tex Rickards and I bet he could make it pay. Why it would soon be known as a bigger fight Club than Madison Square Garden if those fellows ever learn to let each other. It certainly would be great if we could just get some scheme where we could make that Congress and Senate pay its way.

Well, we just got a few more days of Congress, so any of them that are sore at each other better be fighting for they haven't got long to do it in. Country will soon be free again, unless Mr. Coolidge calls a special session, and I think he has too much consideration for the people to do that. They got a bill in there to kill off these "Lame Duck" Sessions but its got too much merit in it to pass. You know we got a lot of men there that were defeated away last November. It takes seven months to blast you out after you have been fired. There is a very good Bill in there now to make it possible that newly elected men go in on January the first, at the beginning of the new Congress. Watch and see if you ever even hear of it. But you put some kind of appropriation to it and you will see it pass right now.

Well, we are going through pretty momentous times right now, with all the fights in Nicaragua, Mexico, China and Congress and the Senate, and Sacco and McAdoo warming up. It looks like a great year. We suggested disarming and France had a good laugh. I am on my way home to defend my reputation as a Mayor. I am the only Mayor that never made a Mistake. I never made a decision.

BOARD OF ELECTIONS TO CONSIDER WARD PLANS

Officials To Meet Monday Night To Decide Procedure in Redistricting

Arrangements are being made for a meeting of the Marion County Board of Elections to be held next Monday night, when changes in procedure necessitated by the city's new six-ward division will be considered.

Due to the fact that boundaries of the new wards closely follow present precinct lines, it is probable that only one precinct change will be required. This will contribute greatly to keeping down the expense of putting the new six-ward plan into effect, city officials state.

Some of the present precincts should be divided, their voting population being considerably in excess of what election officials regard as a normal average. It is not likely, however, that any divisions will be made this year, local election board members state.

According to plans under consideration now, no new precincts will be created until after the election next fall. It is expected that then a general revision will be made so as to have all necessary changes completed prior to the general registration of voters, scheduled for 1928.

It will be necessary for the board to prepare a new map showing the six wards recently established by Council.

Gargle Aspirin for Tonsilitis or Sore Throat

A harmless and effective gargle is to dissolve two "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" in four tablespoonfuls of water, and gargle throat thoroughly. Repeat in two hours if necessary.

Be sure you use only the genuine Bayer Aspirin, marked with the Bayer Cross, which can be had in tin boxes of twelve tablets for few cents.—Adv.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver— constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c. —Adv.

Mr. Husband—

would you like to do the washing?

You don't think you would, do you?

Bending over a tub, rubbing and scrubbing and wringing, doing something you know will have to be done all over next week—why, that's no work for a man.

It's no work for a woman, either. And it's so unnecessary—when, for a few cents a pound "Thrif-T-service" will return your clothes, spotlessly clean, with flat work ironed and remainder of bundle ready to iron, or to hang up to dry.

CHAPTER FIFTY

I bent down over the stricken man who lay as he had fallen, feeling his pulse and heart.

"Claypole," I said, looking up, "you struck better than you knew. The man's dead."

He stood silent a moment.

"So I've killed him," he said, softly. "Still, I reckon he had orders to put you out, so it was his life or yours. I can't honestly say I'm sorry."

We moved the body from the track, placing it behind a large bowlder, and without losing any further time we plodded on through the darkness, climbing uphill. The remaining Japanese was in front attempting no resistance but going steadily forward under Claypole's direction, backed by his six shooter.

"Where are we going?" I asked after some minutes of silent progress.

"Safe up the mountain," replied Claypole, "where we can leave this little man to yell his heart out without inconvenience to the neighbors. I know this blamed wood from end to end. My name is Norval. On the Grampian hills my father feeds his flock. Goats they were. I was an old, old man, and I made them to lie down in green pastures.

I suddenly remembered the aged herdsman I had seen on the mountains during my walk with Penrose.

"So that was you?" I murmured, more than ever mystified.

"Shall I ever forget it?" said Claypole. "Goats are all very well in their way—the great god Pan and all that sort of thing; but I don't recommend you to take a one-room tenement with twenty-three adult members of the species. Who was the girl?" he unexpectedly concluded. "Fine high stepper she was, too."

"She is the wife of the Center," I said shortly.

He received this piece of information without comment, his mind evidently on other matters as we tramped on in silence again for a time, making no sound under foot on the carpet of pine needles. It had now ceased raining for some hours, but no stars showed through the heavy clouds above us. Then, all at once, things began to happen.

I heard far off on the mountainside the noise of a great rush of air, like a giant's sigh, swelling to a roar.

Claypole and the little Japanese stopped, and then the latter suddenly, with a cry, bounded forward.

"Not so fast, you son of a gun," shouted Claypole above the strange tumult in the air.

But at that instant there was a terrible crashing and rending in the mountains above, and the darkness became intense. I leaned forward and gripped Claypole by the arm.

"What is it?"

He shouted something in my ear which I could not hear above the tumult. Suddenly the ground began to tremble beneath my feet, and I swayed violently. Something hit me on the shoulder, and I staggered sideways, still holding on to Claypole. There was a crashing of branches, and I seemed to discern the dark bodies of great trees felled and tossed. We lost our footing and together we rolled over and over for some distance, finally being brought up short by what proved to be a large bowlder.

I sat gasping, the breath knocked out of me.

"What's happened?" I whispered, after a second or two.

"Avalanche," replied Claypole briefly. "We're lucky not to have been killed. Brought on by the storm, I expect."

I remembered from vague lessons in my youth that earth on the steep slope of a mountain side was frequently loosened after a storm and slipped down. Stories of mountain villages swept away came to my mind.

We stumbled to our feet.

"Now where is that little Japanese?" said Claypole.

We went forward again in the darkness. The air was filled with the smell of freshly turned earth, but we could see practically nothing. Suddenly a light gleamed, and I saw that Claypole was holding a powerful electric torch in his hand. He flashed it around him as we went forward. Presently it shone on something white. A couple of steps forward brought us to our late prisoner.

He was lying half buried beneath the trunk of a great pine, smashed flat and obviously dead.

"There's precious little of the yellow stark left on him, poor little man," said Claypole gently, looking down at the torn and mangled body.

I was still dazed from the shock of the avalanche, and I found that I no longer had perfect control over the muscles, but shivered spasmodically, a phenomenon which I had noticed when undergoing a heavy bombardment during the late War. It was not exactly fear but rather physical reaction from great strain.

At any other time I should have been horrified by the swift doom of the two men who had guided us from the chalet. But I had no emotion to spare for such accidents as these. The events of the last few days, the horror of the madhouse, quickly succeeded by the perilous of being drugged, the forced evacuation of my escape when I had severely hurt one man and seen two others killed, and finally the avalanche, smashing and wrecking the forest and so near putting an end to both of us, had rendered me for the moment unresponsive to the smaller of human life. My mind was in the same condition as during the War, when I marched up to the trenches and went through an attack, watching the men lying cold and huddled or else fallen grotesquely round me, regarding them as no more than bundles of clothes without any bodily or spiritual connection with myself. We stood for a moment beside the corpse. Then Claypole, turning away, said briskly:

"We must hasten. The Lord High Muckamuck will be quitting the chalet in about thirty minutes at the outside, and I must be waiting for him with Doctor Kenis. We must now make straight for the Home."

We started off again, downhill this time, retracing our steps. The avalanche had in places swept the path, and on reaching the point where Claypole had so dramatically achieved my rescue, we had to look for some time before we found the body of the other Japanese. Claypole flashed his torch to the side of the track, and presently it lighted up the trunk of a great pine lying across it, and not far away the inanimate form of the little Japanese.

"If Mr. Center should be curious," said Claypole, "it was a stone from that avalanche and not I that hit him."

"But what about me?" I asked. "You've got to account for me, remember."

"You?" echoed Claypole. "There's no need whatever to account for you. You've ceased to exist."

"What do you mean?" I said.

"I mean that this avalanche was a friend in need, a godsend and blessing in disguise. It swept down across the track, polished off you and your keepers, and left me standing alone, trembling in all my mortal limbs, while each particular hair did stand on end. Then this fretful porcupine just ran home and told Mr. Center all about it."

"You mean to report that I was killed."

"That's so," he replied. "It's up to you to cease upon the midnight with no pain, as the poet says. That avalanche makes things unexpectedly easy. In fact, I was wondering what on earth to do with you. You were a bit of a nuisance coming up from under that tablecloth. I needed time at the Home, but it was clear that for you any delay would have been fatal. Your ticket for kingdom come was taken and the signal down."

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

MY vanity gave a little secret purr of pleasure at Hugh Grantland's manner as he asked me if I could keep Katherine out of the way during the interview which he wished to have with me (alone) or during the next few hours. It held exactly the old tone of admiring reverence that I would be ready for any emergency without explanation which always had been in his voice during the days of our government work together.

"Of course," I said briskly. "I will keep Katie in the kitchenette and I will do her own work in my room next to this, where I can see to it that no one comes through the outer corridor leading to the rear. That leaves only the entrance to the public hall which I will bolt. Keep if you set over here near the window and keep your voices reasonably low, for another I not sure often persons can hear you. If a knock comes on that door looking into the hall, just call me, and I will go from the rear room into the hall and find out what is wanted. No one will even know that you are here unless some one saw you come in."

"We saw no one coming up," Hugh said slowly, and I am sure the people interested in our movements—the ghost of a sardonic smile touched his lips—are still following my chauffeur whose skill enabled us to get a taxi unobserved. Everything is all right now. I knew we could depend upon you."

There was a slight emphasis upon the last word, which, coupled with the look in the gray eyes looking into mine, was like a draught of heady wine to my spirit. But I compelled my voice to a perfunctory, "Thank you," and went on to a commonplace.

"You will have time for a cup of tea with us, will you not? I told Katie to prepare it as soon as she told me you were here."

"You are always so thoughtful," he said, "and I am sure we shall especially enjoy a cup of tea just now, for our lunch was a hurried and skeleton affair. But we must not be longer to wear upon your father's arrival. His train will be due at the station inside of the next ten minutes, and when I talked with him before he left I told him to have the taxi driver take the inner streets up-town, thus avoiding traffic. It won't take him long to get up here."

"Then, of course, if you have time we will wait for him." I said, betraying no trace of the surprise I felt over my father's unexpected arrival for I had not expected him until later in the week.

If you will excuse me, I will tell Katie."

I turned to the kitchenette and gave my little maid instructions to add some substantial sandwiches and an omelet to the tea tray, and also to make a pot of coffee for my father. She flashed a startled look at me when I told her of his change in plans, and I saw in her eyes the same half frightened speculation which had been there upon a day weeks before when she betrayed her knowledge of the cablegram Hugh Grantland had sent to my father through me. But surprisingly she made no comment upon my news except her invariably cheery, "All right, I fees."

"Have everything on the tray except the omelet, the coffee and the tea," I told her. "Then the second my father arrives put the omelet in the pan and set your coffee on. I'll make the tea at the table. By the time he's taken off his things and exchanged greetings with me you can be ready, can't you?"

"Sure ting," she agreed with a nonchalance which I knew was rooted in her knowledge of her own surefire efficiency, and when I opened the door to my father a few minutes later, I caught sight of a wildly waving hand from the kitchenette door, and knew that in my little maid's own language she was "strictly on dot job."

Menu Hints

Recipes for New and Novel Dishes, Household Ideas and Suggestions

The most dinner for the child of kindergarten age is the one meat meal of the child's day. A special kind of meat or substitute should be provided. This may mean extra work for the mother who is also the cook, but as much as possible she should use materials that can also be used for the adult meals. The following dinner menus for the little ones have been carefully worked out to fill the child's needs as economically as possible.

FIRST DINNER
Individual Chicken Pie
Creamed Carrots
Rice Junket
Milk or Cocoa

SECOND DINNER
Broiled Chopped Meat Cakes
Mashed Potato Boiled Beets
Bread and Butter Pudding

THIRD DINNER
Broiled Lamb Chops
Baked Potatoes Peas
Frozen Custard

TODAY'S RECIPES

In the first dinner, make the crust for the pie of butter, or vegetable fat, and roll it very thin. After stewing the chicken, take as much as is needed from the bones, cut in small pieces, make a good gravy and when partially cool fill the pie and bake as usual. Leftover may be added to any of the dishes simply dressed with a few drops of lemon juice and a few grains of salt. In the second dinner, be careful to make the meat cakes light and not too thick. Serve the beets with a simple sauce.

Cheese may be omitted from the macaroni in the third dinner, butter and cream taking its place. Make a good boiled custard and freeze it.

WINNING TEAMS AT CARDINGTON MEET TO PLAY

Mt. Gilead Boys Miss First Day's Contest By Drawing Bye

Mt. Gilead, Feb. 26—Chesterville, Cardington and Edison boys' teams and Mt. Gilead and Chesterville girls' teams were winners in the preliminaries of the annual Morrow County basketball tournament, held in the Cardington High school gym yesterday afternoon and last night.

Boys' Results

Chesterville, 38; Bloominggrove, 9
Cardington, 50; Iberia, 26.
Edison, 42; Fulton, 21.

Girls' Teams

Mt. Gilead, 21; Edison, 4.
Chesterville, 9, Edison, 4.

Chesterville had no trouble in trouncing Bloominggrove in the first game of yesterday afternoon's play. The Chesterville team has improved greatly during the past few weeks and showed a good fast game. Kennedy was high scorer for the winners, making 18 points. Captain Steavens, played the best for the losers, and made five points.

Mt. GileadEdison Game

Edison provided very little competition for Mt. Gilead girls in the second game of the preliminaries, losing with a score of 21 to 4. The Purple passed well, but missed many shots. There was much fouling in the game, twelve being called on Edison and fourteen on Mt. Gilead.

Edison boys doubled the score on Fulton, and after the first quarter had the game in their own hands. The little Fulton team showed a lot of speed and fight and outplayed the Edisonites in the first quarter. The Edison team played good ball and presented a totally different game than they did at the outset of the season.

Last Night's Games

Chesterville girls eked out a 9 to 4 win over the Fulton team, after trailing the first half. Neither team showed much form or pass work, and the game was rather slow.

The fast moving Cardington boys' team went into action and swamped Iberia under an avalanche of baskets. The first half was decidedly one sided and the second period ended 27 to 4 in favor of Cardington. Coach White then withdrew three of his players and Iberia was able to score 22 points, while Cardington continued to demonstrate its scoring prowess.

Semi-Finals

Mt. Gilead and Chesterville girls' teams wil meet for the first game of the semi-finals this afternoon. It is expected that Mt. Gilead will win this game and enter the finals, with the winner of the Cardington-Iberia game. Both of these teams play their first game in the semi-finals by virtus of drawing byes. Cardington should win this game, which will mean that Mt. Gilead and Cardington will play in the finals.

Cardington and Chesterville boys' teams will play the second game of the afternoon, and Cardington should win easily. Mt. Gilead is expected to win over Edison in the closing game this afternoon, and thus will meet Cardington in the finals.

Large crowds have witnessed both sessions of the tournament yesterday and even larger ones are expected at Levering Hall today. The hall will likely be packed tonight for the finals. The winners will receive silver loving cups and also pennants, and the basket balls will be awarded the runners-up.

Motsch, of Galion and Murray, of Wooster, refereed the games yesterday in a very creditable manner. Moisch and Sieger of Delaware are today's officials.

The drawing at the office of County Superintendent W. A. Stage, yesterday morning resulted as follows in the boys' events: Chesterville drew Bloominggrove, Iberia drew Cardington. Edison and Fulton were paired and Mt. Gilead drew a bye.

The result of the girls' drawings were: Fulton-Chesterville, Mt. Gilead-Edison; Iberia and Cardington both drew byes.

The Chesterville-Bloominggrove boys' game, the Mt. Gilead-Edison girls' game and the Edison-Fulton boys' game were set down for afternoon play and the Fulton-Chesterville girls' game and the Iberia-Cardington boys' game for Friday night.

Bucyrus Again Victorious Over Galion High Cagemen

Galion, Feb. 26—The two Crawford county entries in the S. C. O. L. battled to their annual close last night at an interesting game which was witnessed by a large crowd of Galion and visiting Bucyrus. Although it was the final meeting of the season for the two great rival quintets, it was the only contest that counted in the league standings. Playing the same brand of basketball that won the two former games for them, the Red Men of Bucyrus conquered the Orange men by a score of 25-21.

During the first period the playing was fairly contested and the margin of the Bucyrus score was comparatively small but in the last half the ability of some of the opposing five kept the locals

WEST MANSFIELD TEAM DEFEATED BY MARYSVILLE

Union County Seat Basketeers Bring Exceptionally Successful Season To Close

Marysville, Feb. 26—Marysville High School closed its schedule last night on the local armory floor by defeating West Mansfield, contenders in the Logan County basketball tournament by a score of 46 to 23. In a preliminary contest among the Junior High teams, East defeated West by a score of 6 to 12. The M. H. S. girls team was idle.

The visitors showed occasional sparks of speed in the first half but were unable at any time during the game to take the lead. They closed the half with the locals leading 25 to 19.

The locals played rings around their opponents during the second half and were lucky on shots. The visitors were able to add only four points to their score of the first half while the locals almost doubled their score.

Laird, veteran guard in the Marysville crew, was again the high scorer, having 12 points to his credit. He was closely followed by Stricker, forward, who was able to garnish 10 points from under the basket. Marker, center, took four points to his credit and Mills, a substitute forward, made six points. The remainder of the score was divided between other members of the team and substitutes. Bushong and Stout were the mainstays for the visitors, each taking six points to his credit.

Successful Season

This closes one of the most successful basketball seasons in the history of the local school. The boys' team has won 14 games out of the 15 played. They have scored 410 points to the 245 of their opponents, which is an average of 29 to 17. High scorer for the season was forward Bump with 105 points to his credit.

Following the game last night, the Marysville High girls royally entertained the boys with a party at the armory. The affair was the result of a victory by Coach Kingsmore's Glee Club over that of the girls under the direction of Miss Ferne Mills, principal. Games, cards and dancing were enjoyed by those present.

ESCAPES HOME SHORTLY BEFORE ROOF CAVES IN

Arthur Nichols Saved from Horrible Death in Flames by Neighbors' Cries

Kenton, Feb. 26—Arthur Nichols, farmer of south of here, escaped a horrible death when awakened by neighbors as he lay soundly sleeping in the upper rooms of his home which was completely destroyed by fire.

Returning from a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jud Roberts in the Velverton neighborhood, Earl Roberts first discovered the fire and sounded the alarm.

Unable to enter the home, neighbors beat on the door until Nichols awakened. Scantily clad the farmer crawled through an upper window a few seconds before the burning roof caved in. Mrs. Nichols and infant were away visiting at the time.

Owing to the headway gained by the fire before discovery, very little of the household goods was saved. The frame structure was completely destroyed.

The fire, the third occuring at the Nichols home within the past two weeks, originated from a defective flue.

Later in the evening Mrs. Jordan, fearing a return of the prowler, armed herself with a revolver and hid away in a shed affording her a full view of the chicken house. After a 5-hour vigil a colored man appeared and as he attempted to open the lock on the house she fired one shot and then commanded him to "stick 'em up."

Instead the intruder took to his heels and as he disappeared Mrs. Jordan emptied the revolver after him.

ALL STATES ARE EXPECTED TO SEND ENTRIES

Meeting Scheduled for Sept. 5 First Sponsored on Country-Wide Scale

Kenton, Feb. 26—National coon hound field trials, the first ever sponsored in the history of the country are to be held in Kenton on Labor Day, Sept. 5, to determine the national grand champion coon dog.

Already this major sport in coon hounddom, to be known as the Leafy Oak National Coon Hound Field trials, conceived and directed by the Leafy Oak Management here, has received the pledged support of coon hound interests and owners throughout the country.

Many queries are being received daily in the offices of the Leafy Oak management in the Grand Theatre building here, relative to the entrance requirements, purses and other details.

Stake Arranged

A $1,000 stake has been arranged for dogs finishing 1, 2 and 3 in the grand finals and in addition there will be substantial elimination heat purses.

The United Kennel Club of Kalamazoo, Mich., has arranged to present a silver trophy cup to the winner and C. Bomgar, club secretary, will confer the degree of national grand champion upon the victor. Nationally known judges will judge the trials under approved ground rules.

Open dogs regardless of age or place of ownership, are eligible to enter the open competition to establish the grand champion promoters say. Nomination of entries opens March 10 and closes May 30 with a fee of $5. Elimination heats will be limited to 10 entries and the heat winners will be entered in the grand finals.

The purse to each heat winner will total approximately $15 while the Leafy Oak stake of $1,000 is to be divided on a basis of 60, 30 and 10 per cent to the winners.

Although coon hound field trials are held annually in many communities, this is the first time that the sport has been planned on a national scale. Entries are expected to be received from all sections of the country.

Green Camp Boys, Pleasant Girls County Champs

Marion Enters Ohio Short Ship Circuit; To Hold Race Meet This Year

Harding Defeats Delaware in Final Battle, 19-18

Big Blue Quint Trounces Caledonia; Pleasant Team Trims Morral in Thriller

Prospect Whips Martel Boys for Third Honors in County and Right To Go to District Delaware Tourney; Hundreds Witness Exciting Basketball Clashes

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB
Sports Editor, The Star

TRAILING by one or two points until the last three minutes of play, the Big Blue basketeers from Green Camp High School last night took a final spurt in the battle with Caledonia and landed on top of a 11 to 7 count as the gun cracked for the close of the Marion County high school championship cage tilt in the Star auditorium.

Green Camp boys today carry the title of Marion County champs as a result of the comeback that will go down in the annals of county sports.

Pleasant Township girls are the feminine basketball leaders of the county. They proved their right to the title last night when they trimmed Morral, 9 to 8, in the championship round played on the Star auditorium court.

And, last, but not least, Prospect, last year's county champion, is eligible to enter the district tourney at Delaware and holds third honors in Marion County as a result of its overwhelming victory over Martel. The final score was 21 to 2.

Auditorium Packed

The Star auditorium was literally packed for the championship games last night. Basketball fans of Marion and from all parts of the county assembled to witness the cage warfare. The hall was filled to the doors and almost overflowing through that source. And they saw two of the greatest basketball games ever staged on a local court.

While the first contest between Prospect and Martel proved to be a walkaway for the visitors from the southern part of the county, it was closely contested during the first half. The score at the end of the first quarter was 3 to 0 in favor of Prospect and at half time stood 8 to 0.

Grimes caged Martel's only field goal and lone two points early in the second half but the first score of the game for the Martel lads seemed only to infuriate the Prospect lads, who then displayed some real basketball ability. They dubbed around in the first half and should have had a larger number of points, although Martel also missed many shots.

Johnson at Guard

Coach L. B. Brown of Prospect, used a new system of playing the giant "Tiny" Johnson at back guard last night and as a result, Martel was helpless. "Tiny" would do the hat-off work and then drop back as a barrier in protection of his goal. That's where he has belonged all winter and he showed it. Russel and Howser scored all of Prospect's points. Howser made eight and Russell caged 11 counters.

The Martel team was unable to connect with the bucket in the first half and was completely outclassed in the second frame. Grimes and Reed did the best work for the losers.

Residents of the vicinity of Pleasant Township school went delirious last night two minutes before the girls game ended. The cause of their outburst was the long dribble and short shot accomplished successfully by Mautz, Pleasant center, when the score was standing 8 to 7 against the Pleasant school. Mautz's field goal, the third scored by Pleasant during the game, won the championship of the county for that team. The final score was 9 to 8.

Girls' Battle

The girls' championship battle was positively one of the most thrilling and exciting encounters of its kind ever witnessed by Marion County cage fans. It was anybody's game from the start, but Morral looked like the "anybody" at the end of the first quarter. The count read 4 to in that school's favor. A field goal by Cromer in the second quarter brought the Pleasant outfit within two points of its opponents, the margin being 5 to 3 with Morral on top at halftime.

Two free throws by Heller and one by Warner took Morral to the eight-point mark before the end of the third quarter while Pleasant tagged along with two free throws and a field goal and hit the seven mark, only one point behind Morral. Four minutes later, Mautz made her winning throw and Morral was unable to tie the count before the gun cracked.

The Green Camp-Caledonia contest was equal to the girls' game in excitement. Neither team was at any time leading by more than two points and the crew that set the pace was Caledonia. Each team threw up a wonderful defense and Green Camp in particular was forced to resort to long shots. Had F. Furniss, Green Camp center, had more luck connected with his throws from the center of the court, the points would have piled sky high against Caledonia. But the excellent guarding of the east section lads prevented all short attempts on the part of the Big Blue.

Caledonia Leading

Caledonia was leading at halftime 7 to 5 and was still leading by the same score at the end of the third period. Lyons, center for the east champs, was removed from the fray early in the fourth quarter on personal fouls but it is doubtful whether he could have stopped Green Camp's winning spurt.

F. Furniss tied the count at seven all with four minutes to go and a minute later, Ward, flashy Green Camp guard, won the game with a brilliant successful attempt from mid-court. Porter cinched the county title when he dropped in his first short shot of the night in the last two minutes. Green Camp had nothing to do in the last few minutes but keep the ball to itself and the boys carried out orders perfectly. Caledonia never got their hands on the sphere.

Cups Presented

Rotary cups were presented to Capt. Mautz of Pleasant girls and Capt. Ward of Green Camp following the games. Caledonia boys received a cup for first place in the east section and Green Camp boys were awarded a cup for first in the west. Pleasant girls received a basketball trophy as did Morral girls as a reward for their efforts in the respective county leagues. Chairman of the athletic committee Thurl Stephens of Claridon, presented the trophies.

MICHIGAN AGAIN LEADS BIG TEN

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 26—Michigan today was back in first place in the Big Ten basketball race by virtue of the Wolverines' victory over the Illinois team last night 30 to 26. Seven thousand fans saw the game. Michigan led almost all the way. The score at half time was 16 to 9. In the closing minutes the Illini staged a desperate rally but never came closer than four points.

MANSFIELD WINS

Cops North Central Ohio League Title with Victory Over Shelby

Mansfield High School last night copped the North Central Ohio League basketball bunting when it romped over Shelby for a 45 to 15 victory on the Shelby court. It was easy going all the way for Mansfield.

Bucyrus closed the season in third place when they took Galion under for a 35 to 22 win at Galion. Ashland is in second place as the season closes and Harding is in fifth position.

PAOLINO UZCUDUM GETS DECISION OVER HAUSEN

New York, Feb. 26—Paolino Uzcudum, colorful basque woodchopper of Spain, "got the duke," as the boys say, after battling ten rounds last night with Knute Hausen, the mournful Dane of Minnesota, and promptly turned a spectacular flip flop—right in the Madison Square Garden ring with 13,000 fans looking on in surprise and amusement. He did it with neatness and dispatch, whirling on the back of his neck before he catapulated his sturdy frame upright upon his dogs.

Local Men Organize Sulky City Racing Association; Plan Four Stake Races

Meet Will Be Held Week of June 20, Opening on Tuesday and Closing on Friday; Will Be Conducted Under Harness Horse Race Association Rules; Officers Are Elected

Marion will have a harness horse race meet this summer.

This was established last night when local race fans and business men organized the Sulky City Racing Association during a meeting at the Harding Hotel, called for the purpose of discussing the possibility of runs city again entering the Ohio Short Ship Circuit for the summer.

Charles Mapes was elected president of the association. W. G. Minshall is vice president. Wayne Groves was chosen secretary, Rolland Leeper is assistant secretary, and C. A. Monnette will serve as treasurer. Directors of the association are Charles McMurray, Jim Dugan, and J. A. Reed.

The Sulky City Association last night joined the Ohio Short Ship Circuit and will promote the meet here the week of June 20.

It will be a four-day meeting, opening on Tuesday and closing Friday of the week named. There are to be four $1,000 early closing stakes and 10 or 12 purse races. The meet will be conducted under Harness Horse Association rules, eligibility being founded on money earned instead of record classification.

The racing meet here will open the week following the Ohio Short Ship races at Mansfield and preceding those scheduled for Akron. Marion is assured of one of the finest meets yet conducted in this city.

The program committee consists of Rolland Leeper, Wayne Groves, Frank Looter, and Dr. Sifritt.

The first general meeting in regard to the races here this summer was held last Wednesday in the Buick garage. The meeting last night was staged at the Harding Hotel and future meetings of the association will be held in the latter place.

DETROIT'S NEW ARENA WILL SEAT 12,000

Plans for Detroit Hockey Club's Olympic Arena Are Changed

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 26—Plans for the Detroit Hockey Club's Olympia Arena have been changed so that it will be the largest building in the world devoted to boxing and other athletic events, according to a petition filed with the Michigan Securities Commission.

The original plans, laid before the commission in August, 1926, contemplated a building that would seat 12,000 persons at a hockey game and 15,000 at boxing exhibitions. To carry out the original plans was expected to cost $800,000. The new application asks authority to sell $750,000 of additional preferred stock. The changed plans contemplated a building to cost, with its site, approximately twice the estimates for the structure originally projected.

The new application does not state the exact seating capacity now contemplated, but on the basis of the costs contained in the original plans the present design should care for upwards of 25,000 persons.

ANOTHER ROUND IN INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE MONDAY

Railway Service Will Take Final Crack at C., D. & M. Cage Outfit

The Railway Service quintet will take a final crack at the strong league leading C. D. & M. basketball crew Monday night in the Star auditorium in the fourteenth round of the Marion Industrial Basketball League. It will be the second game on the program. The Commercials will clash with the Marion Business College in the first game and Osgoods will meet Hubers in the final contest of the night.

The Railway Service crew started the season with a bang but is now slipping in a second place tie with the Commercials, each having won seven contests and lost four. The C. D. & M. team is leading the league with 11 consecutive wins and no defeats. Only one more round remains after Monday night.

While the C. D. & M. has had success with all teams so far this year and has even defeated the Railway Service on one occasion, it may fall before the season ends. A defeat or two will not alter the standing of the Electricians and they have cinched the Industrial League honors.

The Commercials should have little difficulty in knocking off the Marion Business College but we have seen worse upsets even than that so far this season. Last week, the Commercials went down in defeat before the onslaught of the first Osgood club. The Collegians may turn the tide this week and duplicate the feat. Should Commercials win and Railway Service basketeers lose, the Commercials have full possession of second place in the league.

The final game will feature a battle between Osgoods and Hubers. While Osgoods are hoped to win the fray, the ever-changing Huber quintet may pull a surprise and down their foes.

The fifteenth and final round of the Industrial League will be staged March 7, the six highest teams in percentage after tonight taking part.

Marionites Come Back for Victory in Final Minutes of Hard-Fought Cage Tilt

"Chuck" Evans Makes Free Throw for Winning Point in Last Minute of Play; Game Is Played on Delaware Court; Harding Gets Revenge for Defeats of 1926-27

Delaware, O., Feb. 26—In a nip and tuck, hair-raising basketball battle, Harding High last night nosed out Delaware High basketeers by a one-point margin on the armory court here. The final read 19 to 18.

It was Hardings' final game of the season and the second contest with Delaware this year. In the first game, an N. C. O. affair, the Marionites lost 19 to 13 on the Star auditorium court at Marion.

The game was fiercely fought throughout. Delaware making a desperate stand in the last half after Harding had annexed a 13 to 8 lead in the first frame.

The first half, characterized by rather slow and slippish court play, started with Harding going into the lead by an early field marker. It was the first time this year that the Marion lads scored the first points of a contest.

Delaware counted with a foul goal and a little later with a fielder. Another free throw and one also by a Harding completed the scoring of the first quarter which came to a close with Delaware on top of a 4 to 3 mark.

Hardings' offensive in the second half was one of the best seen on the local court this season. The visitors ran their score up from 3 to 13, while Delaware was forced to be content with a mere four points.

Delaware came back with a fierce rush and two field goals in rapid succession narrowed the margin between the two teams early in the second half. Delaware finally forged into the lead but a late Harding rally stopped their scoring spree and a short time later tied the count 18 all with two minutes to play.

Then, with the crowd going wild, Chuck Evans, Harding man who had replaced Cline at forward, dropped the sphere through the hoop on a free throw for the winning point of the game. Strive as they might, the Delaware crew could not again connect with the bucket and the game came to a tragic end for the locals, who were on the tail end of a 19 to 18 score.

Offensively Garrett starred for Harding, making four buckets and a free throw. Weiser, Delaware's lanky center, was high-point man for his team. He made four field goals. Chuck Evans of Marion, did much towards taking in the victory for the visitors.

"Red" Evans, Delaware back guard, was everywhere when his goal was threatened. Time after time Harding worked the ball to within scoring distance only to have their work go for naught as the result of Evans' guarding.

The result of the game brings back memories from last year when, after defeating Delaware twice, Harding went to the Delaware tournament and fell before the opposing crew from this city. On this occasion, however, the tables are turned and it's Marion that's laughing last and best.

The lineup and score:

"That's what we're talking of," snickered the Bob Cat who was laughing at the Bear, for the big bushy chap couldn't get a glimpse of his stubby tail no matter how fast he swung around. "We're talking of the best way to catch Uncle Wiggily to nibble his ears," mewed the Cat.

"We'll never catch him," sighed the Woozie Wolf. "Didn't we all post ourselves at the sides of his bungalow the other day, and didn't he tunnel through the snow and get in the cellar window, fooling us?"

"He did," agreed the Bob Cat. "And the last two times I tried to get that rabbit he fooled me," snarled the Bob Cat. "Once he stuck some fuzzy cotton from the horse chestnut tree on my nose, tickling me so I had to run away. And day before yesterday he made rain drip down out of a tree when the sun was shining and there wasn't a cloud in the sky. Fair magic, I thought it was, and I ran."

"You did well to run!" said the Fox. "Only yesterday he brushed my teeth with red pepper and my mouth isn't done smarting yet. We must get him that rabbit!"

"So say we all of us!" chanted the Bear and Wolf.

"But how?" inquired the Bob Cat.

"The snow isn't deep, now," went on the Fox. "He can't crawl through a tunnel this time. I don't believe he has any more red pepper and the sun will soon go down so he can't work magic rain from frozen trees. What I say is let's all make a rush to that rabbit's bungalow, burst in the doors and get him by surprise that way, before he knows what's what."

"Let's do it!" snarled the Bob Cat. "I'm tired of being fooled."

So the four bad chaps set off together through the woods, thinking they would surely get Uncle Wiggily this time. And now, as they say in story books, let us see what the rabbit gentleman is doing about this time. He did not know the bad chaps were coming to get him, for Uncle Wiggily was busy taking different things out of different paper bags in the kitchen of his hollow stump bungalow.

The rabbit gentleman had been to the store for his wife and Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy and had brought groceries of various kinds, such as a bottle of calico, a half pint of silk, a dozen of bread and a pound of milk and the like of that. Everything was in paper bags and when the groceries were taken out that left the bags emptied.

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

"Something will have to be done about it!" growled the Bushy Bear, looking slowly around and trying to get a look at his stubby little tail. He wanted to see whether it was longer or shorter than the Bob Cat's silly one.

"That's what I say! Something must be done!" snarled the Fuzzy Fox.

"When do we eat?" howled the Woozie Wolf, coming out of a dark ... of the Bear's den where this ...ering of the bad chaps was taking ... one afternoon.

Everything was in paper bags and when the groceries were taken out that left the bags emptied.

Baby Bunty, with Sammie Tooter, Jingle, Jungle and the other little rabbits crowded around Uncle Wiggily, asking if they might take the empty paper bags to play store with, for it was Saturday when there was no school.

"Take the bags and welcome, my dears," said Uncle Wiggily, and just then, all of a sudden, Nurse Jane looked from a window and squealed:

"Oh, here come four bad chaps—the Bushy Bear, the Woozie Wolf, the Fuzzy Fox and the Bob Cat with his silly little tail! Here they come to get you, Uncle Wiggily!"

Surely enough, up to the bungalow came the four hungry animals.

"Call the Police Dog!" cried Tooter.

"Get the fire shovel!" said Baby Bunty. But Uncle Wiggily said:

"We shall scare these bad chaps with paper guns. Quick, little bunnies, each one of you blow up a paper bag with air. And when it is blown up, clap the bag hard between your paws and it will burst with a noise like a gun. We'll fix these bad chaps!"

Up ran the bad chaps, trying to break the windows and doors. But all of a sudden from within the bungalow sounded: "Bang! Bang! Bung! Bing! Boom!"

"Oh, there are a lot of hunters in there with guns!" howled the Bob Cat. "Come away before they shoot us!" Then away ran the bad chaps, frightened by the popping of the paper guns which were only blown up grocery bags. But, of course, the Bear and his companions didn't know that.

Away they ran. The Bear stubbed his paw, the Fox fell down, the Wolf stuck a sharp icicle in his nose and the Bob Cat's tail was hit by a snowball thrown by Baby Bunty. And soon all was peace and quiet in the bunny's bungalow. The bad chaps were still hungry. But, if wash rag doesn't splash water in the face of the clock so it tells the wrong kind of time, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the early wind.

Starting 21 years ago with practically no capital, the Misses Alice and Mary Doty of Buffalo have built up a large and profitable business as expert menders of rare china and cut glass.

MOTOR STOCKS FEATURE ACTIVITIES IN MARKET

Railroad Shares Keep Pace in Moderate Rally in Short Session

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stock, strong; industrial stocks, strong; domestic bonds, firm; foreign bonds, firm, grain, steady; copper, firm, oil, irregular; cotton, fairly steady; rubber firm; sugar, firm; pig iron, firm.

New York, Feb. 26—The motor stocks and motor accessories were the leaders in a moderate rally of speculative issues in the short session of the market today. A few of the railroad shares kept pace with the advance with Wabash common and preferred stocks strong contenders with the high priced dividend rails for the position of leadership. The move in the public utility stocks was continued to slightly higher level and the oil and copper stocks were firm but inactive.

The week-end business reviews were on the whole favorable, particularly in their promise for the second quarter and beyond. There has been a gratifying increase in production of important lines, culmination by the surprising aggregate of hand-to-mouth buying orders and the necessity for quick delivery of these goods. In general it was stated that American business was in as healthy a state as at any time in the last three years.

General Motors' vigorous advance to the year's high price of 165¾, stimulated active trading in Hudson, Willys Overland Packard and other motor shares, as well as in the known tire and rubber shares. United States Rubber moved up in an active market to 65½, up 2, while Fisk, Goodrich, Ajax and Goodyear made moderate gains.

There was less evidence of profit taking and speculative short selling than in the last few days, and price changes were narrow as compared with the previous sessions of the week. U. S. Steel and Baldwin failed to keep pace with General Motors in its march to higher price territory, and the continuation of speculative activity in other important groups of stocks was equally emphatic.

Local interest in the subway transit situation was responsible for the increase in buying of the traction shares. Third Avenue made a good impression by ordering the second interest payment on its 5 per cent. Adjustment bonds, now widely held by bond traders. Interboro stock made an additional fractional gain and the Brooklyn Manhattan transit common stock was purchased in good volume.

Pools in a number of the low priced specialty stocks were busily engaged in pushing their favorites to the front in an effort to stimulate outside buying. This manipulation probably accounted for all the activity in certain stocks which are newcomers to the active list.

A better tone developed in the oil stocks, due in part to the decision of the oil leaders to pinch in the part of the Seminole district and to hold up drilling operations there for a month. The Barnsdall issues advanced to new peaks for the year, and good buying was in evidence in the Standard oils and independents.

Wabash common spurted to 73¾, at the head of the speculative rail list, in the final period. The dividend rails, including Frisco Common, New York Central and the Northwestern Railroad shares, made their best records in this period. The industrials were slightly reactionary under profit-taking, but there were more gains than losses in the final line-up.

Foreign government bonds and domestic railroad issued led the activity in the listed bond market today. Prices were generally steady, with fractional advances in most of the active bonds represented. The new flat seven per cent with warrants sold up nearly a point at 106¾, while the bonds without warrants sold at 91. Polish government 6s and 8s were in demand on reports that a new loan of $100,000,000 would be extended to that country by American bankers.

The first Liberty 3½ per cents reported their almost daily performance of establishing a new high price for the year. The bonds sold at 101.21 to 101.23, while the second 4¼s sold at 104.22, and the fourth 4¼s at 103.27. Issues of 4¼s fell back fractionally to 103.18.

Five Railroad convertible 4s of issues were the most active of the railroad list. Erie and Katy adjustments sold slightly higher. Local traction issues took their recent gains, while public utility issues were slightly reactionary. The week's total of new issues was $65,000,000.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

The egg market continued extremely active, with another drop recorded both locally and at the produce centers in the wholesale price. Fresh eggs, in retail buying priced at 38 cents a dozen wholesale today had taken a drop of three cents, being 37 cents a dozen.

Receipts at many stores again showed down the prices and stores were glad to get what they could for them. Storage eggs have practically disappeared or at least are not selling due to the low price of fresh eggs.

The live poultry markets at Cleveland yesterday reported at the drop in the price of eggs and poultry will further decline.

$1 Bills Raised To $5 And $10 Denominations Found Here; Police Investigate

Work Believed That of Expert "Money Doctors;" Two Banks and Local Merchant Discover Bogus Currency; Changes Neatly Executed

Expert "money doctors" have been at work in Marion and have succeeded in passing four $1 bills which were artistically raised to $5 and $10 denominations.

One of the bogus $5 bills is now in the hands of W. [illegible] of the Richman Bros. clothing store, 120 S. Main st., and was paid by the [illegible] Bank Co. and two of the bills were passed in payment of [illegible] National City Bank & Trust Co.

There may be others in circulation which have not been detected, as the work is expected to escape that [illegible] charges made on the bills are not likely to be discovered at first or even second glance.

Although there is similarity in work [illegible] on the $5 and $10 bills, it is probable that the two were turned out by different persons, the $5 variety showing evidence of more skill than the larger denomination.

Neatly Executed

The $5 bills are so neatly executed that the two discovered this week had passed through the hands of several persons before changes in the numerals and lettering were detected.

The alterations are made with ink corresponding almost identically with the color of the printing on the bills.

Mr. Phillians, manager of the Richman store, stated today that he is uncertain regarding the time that the $5 bill held by him came into his place of business but thinks that it was early this week. The fact that it was a $1 bill raised to $5 was not discovered until it was brought back to the store by a customer to whom it had been handed in making change.

Source Unknown

The bill at the West Side Bank came to that institution early this week in a $500 package of $5 denominations and it is impossible to ascertain the time or place of its origin.

The two $10 notes held by the National City Bank & Trust Co. were received in deposits several weeks ago, Cashier L. D. Zachman stated today.

Reports of the doctored money have been filed with the local police department and also with the Ohio Bankers' Association, which operates a detective bureau.

The prefix "Mac" in a name means "son of".

SPEED DRIVE FOR LAWS TO REGULATE INDUSTRY

Collapse of Miami Coal Miner Wage Parley Causes Renewal of Efforts

Washington, Feb. 26—The congressional drive for federal legislation to regulate the coal industry was accelerated today as result of the collapse of the Miami wage negotiations between bituminous miners and operators.

A strike this spring in the soft coal fields unquestionably would speed the regulatory bills in the next congress in December. It is too late this session to do anything.

Federal supervision, either as a temporary expedient or as a permanent measure, is anathema both to miners and operators. They have always fought strenuously against outside intervention in their affairs.

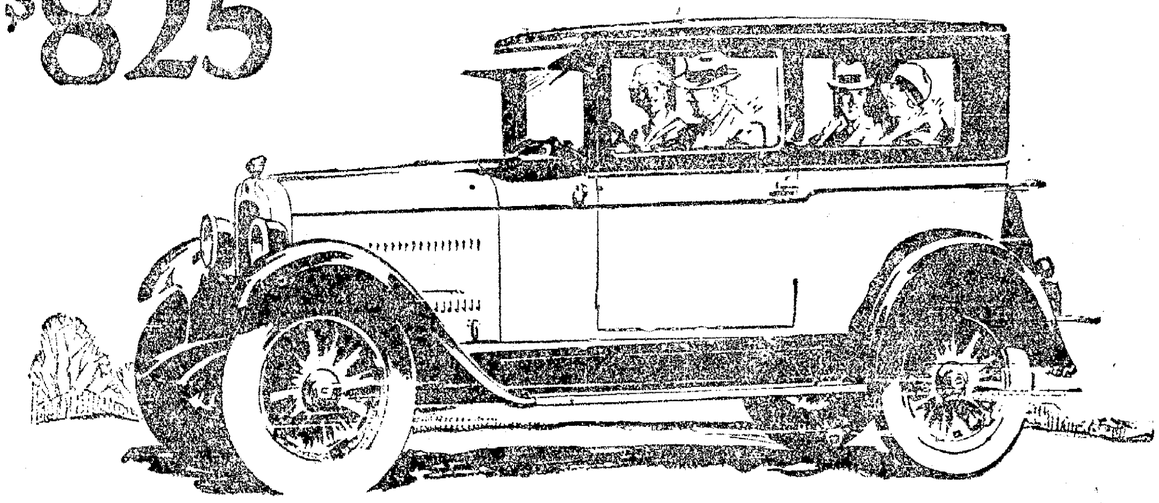
QUALITY AT LOW COST

SEDAN OR COUPE $825



No other low-priced six will ever give you this

It is not beyond the realms of possibility that some day there will be offered a newly created six, closely approximating in basic design and price the Pontiac Six as introduced a year ago.

Whoever builds it will be deserving of great credit. For the Pontiac Six resulted from the combined efforts of Oakland and General Motors engineers, using the matchless discoveries of the General Motors Research Staff and the matchless facilities of the General Motors Proving Ground.

But even if that car does make its appearance, it will lack one powerful inducement to ownership that is of paramount importance in contemplating the Pontiac Six:

Its design and construction will not be conclusively proved by millions of miles of actual service in the hands of thousands of owners. And that is essential, even in a car which was tested and developed as the Pontiac Six was for over three years prior to its announcement!

Design and construction so convincingly demonstrated means more than the elimination of fundamental weaknesses. It means peace of mind from one year's end to the other—and that is what buyers have a right to get, no matter how much or how little they pay!

Pontiac Six, $825 to $975. Oakland Six, companion to Pontiac Six, $1025 to $1295. All prices at factory. Bodies by Fisher. Easy to pay on the liberal General Motors Time Payment Plan.
